● Smocking class to start

In this day of renewed interest in handwork, smocking is enjoying a rebirth. This ancient decorative craft of stitching cloth gathered to make it draw in and fold, will be taught at Farmington Community Center by Karen Drees.

English Smocking, a three-session class begins at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, March 9 and costs $15 plus materials.

English smocking begins with a variety of different finishing patterns for more creativity. Decorative em-broderies, stiches are worked over the day's work.

Students will complete a smocked sampler in either plain or small print Imperial fabrics, special ordered from New York.

The 45-inch piece is finished in smocking by the student to be used as an inset for pillows, aprons or tote bag.

Mrs. Drees is an instructor and does custom-order work. She is a member of the Smocking Arts Guild of America.

Register at the center, 24705 Farmington Road.
