Film and visual perception to be topic for 2-day seminar

Brater Tours opens its Arts and Humanities Seminars program with "Film and Visual Perception" April 23-24 at Meadow Brook Hall on the Oakland University campus near Rochester.

The program offers adults continuing education in a recreational setting and the opportunity to exchange ideas with professors from prestigious universities. The seminars explore film, theater, art and aesthetics, and the interaction among the art forms.

At the Film and Visual Perception seminar, University of Michigan professor Enoch Brater will screen five avant-garde films and discuss how experimental films relate to the avant-garde movement in other arts and the relationship between cinematic and real time.

Films to be screened include Samuel Beckett's "Film," "Sherlock, Jr." with Buster Keaton, "Meshes of an Afternoon," "Last Year at Marienbad" and Dziga Vertov's "Man with the Movie Camera."

Cost of the seminar including tuition, lodging at Meadow Brook, three meals, films and sherry hour is $150-$140 per person, depending on accommodations. For further information contact Brater Tours, 1507 Wells St., Ann Arbor 48104, phone 995-2407 or 668-8899.
