DO YOUR TEEN-AGERS UNDERSTAND YOU?
Today many teen-agers feel that anyone over the age of 30 simply doesn't know.
Rebellion sometimes seems to him to be the only way of life — the only answer.
Irresponsibility and rebellion aren't the only way of life for the teen-ager.
What is important to him as a way of life? Isn't it a deep desire to search for Truth — for meaning in his own life?

This is why young people like the Christian Science Sunday School. They get a chance to think for themselves, and to dig deep for ideas they can prove and use. They find out who they are and why they are here.
Above all, they discover the solid basis for freedom in obedience to God. This helps them understand you!
Your teen-agers are welcome at our Sunday School, any Sunday morning, 11 a.m.

Baker Proposes State Environmental Authority

LANSING
A bill creating a new state authority designed to stimulate private industrial efforts in pollution control has been introduced in the legislature by Rep. Raymond L. Baker (R-Farmington).
It would create the "Michigan Environmental Development Authority," under the Department of Natural Resources, functioning as a public corporation assisting industries in planning, financing, constructing and operating pollution-control facilities.

THE AUTHORITY'S sources of revenue would come from tax-free bonds and notes. They would be for sale to any governmental agency, retirement fund, insurance company or investor.
One of its more important activities would be leading of capital to private businesses for building their own waste treatment centers. This is in response to high costs of machinery and other equipment which prevent many companies from establishing effective means of waste disposal, Baker said.
Other provisions would allow the authority to rent or lease equipment to firms for pollution control until they are able to purchase their own facilities.

BAKER, a legislator since 1961, is a conservationist and outdoorsman. He admits there could be considerable legislative opposition to the bill because of the powerful administrative body it would create.
It would have next to unlimited powers to study and test for pollution, plan and build facilities, contract with individuals and corporations to buy and sell property and work with state and local governments.
Another main function would be to coordinate efforts of local and state governments and work with federal agencies on anti-pollution programs.
With the revenue obtained from bonds the authority could acquire for its own use or rent out smoke precipitators, an entire sewage plant, and garbage disposal facilities.
An annual account of the authority's finances would be made to the governor. It would be part of the governor's annual budget request to the Legislature.
On hand for inspection will be the model of the new library and the architect's drawings.
Board members will answer questions, discuss finances, time schedule and the entire expansion program.
This is an opportunity for interested persons to receive firsthand information about the new facility, which has been planned in an attempt to provide standard library services unfulfilled by the present library's size, book collections and staff.

THE BEAUTIFIERS, know you can't plant a gas lamp but so titled the program to fit into the vernacular of the community's other efforts, tree planting, flower planting, etc.
The city has selected two Charnow type gas lamps to be sold, a $32 and $48 model. By purchasing a minimum of 25 lamps, the city will be given a 20% discount by Consumers Power Co.
Delivery and installation will be handled by E.L. Harding of Central Installation for $25 per lamp. The installation fee represents a savings of $8.50.

Gettin' Sweeter, Sweeter

FARMINGTON
Sap's running at the Forest School site.
As part of their continuing nature development program, staff and students are putting seven of their 24 maple trees to work.
If necessary, they could go commercial, tap all the trees, and become part of Michigan's giant syrup production industry, fifth largest in the country.
For now, they are content with a token operation.
Principal Weldon Peitz traveled to Lansing to consult with syrup expert, Dr. Melvin Koelling, at Michigan State University. He then went to a sugar farm up north where he studied actual production methods and then purchased the necessary spigots and buckets. In the old days they were called spiles and piggins.
Neil Travis, naturalist-mentor at the school, tapped the trees on March 10. They can expect a yield of 14 quarts per day from each tree. This will boil down to about one-tenth in volume of syrup.
Students will have an opportunity to observe the entire process and taste the end product. How sweet it is and it's getting sweeter.
