

Kenneth Faulkner wins scholarship

International Business Machines Corp. recently announced that 200 students have been awarded renewable college scholarships under the Thomas J. Watson Memorial Scholarship Program.

This year's Farmington-area Watson Scholarship winner is Kenneth E. Faulkner of Farmington Hills. He is a student at Farmington High School.

The program annually provides scholarships to outstanding students who are children of active, retired or deceased IBM employees. Awards range from a minimum of $1,000 per year to a maximum of $10,000 per year.

The College Scholarship Service of Princeton, N.J., administers the program for IBM. Winners are chosen on the basis of test scores, academic record, leadership and significant extracurricular activities.

The Thomas J. Watson Memorial Scholarship program was established in 1957 as a lasting memorial to Watson Sr., the first president of IBM. Since its inception, 2,328 children of employees have been named Watson

Now's the time to build that greenhouse

Peas are in the ground. The daffodils are up. And it's a good time to build a greenhouse.

That may seem like a paradox, but spring and summer are the times to build a greenhouse so that when the weather gets cold in the fall, you can transfer your gardening indoors. A U.S. Department of Agriculture booklet describes types of greenhouses, from coldframes to large freestanding units, tells how they are made, where to place them, and what types of heating, ventilation and lighting they need.

For your copy of "Building Greenhouses," send $1.75 to the Consumer Information Center, Department 137K, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

The simplest type of greenhouse is a window unit. It replaces the regular window in the frame. These units are easy to install, but they do stick out from the side of the house, so care must be taken not to block a walkway. While they only hold a few plants, window units are excellent for starting flats of seedlings or for growing house
