MRS. DOMINIK MONTWORI
(Deborah Jane Lusky)

Bride Designs Wedding Dress

Deborah Jane Lusky designed the ivory satin and organza gown she wore for her marriage to Dominik Anthony Montwori in St. Regis Catholic Church, Birmingham, on March 21.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Lusky of Briarcrest Knoll, Farmington, and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony D. Montwori of Youngstown, Ohio.

The Rev. Richard Cyr officiated for the noon ceremony.

THE BRIDE'S GOWN featured pearl trim around the ring collar, empire waist and wrists. A satin and lace petal headpiece with pearl trim held her ivory illusion chapel length veil and she carried white roses, carnations, stephanotis and babies' breath.

Her attendants wore olive crepe empire gowns with Renaissance sleeves and jewel necklines and matching Dior bows in their hair.

Janet Crossland, as maid of honor, carried yellow and white daisies and the bridesmaids, Karen Model and Claudia Lusky, had bouquets of yellow daisies. Michelle Joerin was flower girl and Paul Lusky ringbearer.

ASSISTING the bridegroom were Ronald Rydar as best man, Terry Zimmerman, Richard Lusky and Anthony Montwori Jr. as groomsmen and Donald Wheeler and Walter Wheeler Jr. as ushers.

Mrs. Lusky wore a pale beige knit suit with brown and orange trim, and Mrs. Montwori wore powder blue knit.

The reception was held in Devon Gables.

After a short honeymoon, the couple planned to live in Youngstown where the bridegroom is attending Youngstown State University.

He and his bride, a graduate of North Farmington High School, both attended Mt. Union College at Alliance, Ohio.

140 Candles Glow For Rites

Light from 140 candles illuminated the Martha-Mary chapel in Greenfield Village for the March 21 wedding of Linda Susan Hall and Thomas Craig Hopkins.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Pearl M. Hall of Dearborn Heights and the late Eddie G. Hall Sr. Mr. and Mrs. John Hopkins of Park Lane, Livonia, are parents of the bridegroom.

The minister for the double-ring ceremony was John Belasco.

EDDIE G. HALL JR., the bride's eldest brother, gave her in marriage.

Her gown was white peau de soie with lace forming a bib on the empire bodice and accenting the bishop sleeves and full train.

Three layers of illusion secured by a pearl-trimmed lace headpiece fashioned the bride's veil.

Flower girl Sharon Hall, the bride's niece, wore an orchid organza dress and carried a basket of flowers.

Similar gowns of pink silk organza were the bridesmaids. James and Peggy Hopkins of Livonia and Mary and Carrie Hall of Detroit. All the attendants had floral headpieces that held full veils.

After a Bermuda honeymoon the couple will live in Dearborn where both are employed by the truck engineering division of Ford Motor Co.

RAY WINTERS of Detroit was best man, and the ushers were Gary Slaughter of Westland, Dick Drosos of Livonia and Jack Hopkins of Livonia.

The bride's mother wore teal blue crepe with matching accessories, and Mrs. Hopkins chose turquoise shantung with bead trim.

A horse-drawn carriage took the wedding party from the chapel to Greenfield Village's Lovett Hall, where the reception for 250 was held.

After a Bermuda honeymoon the couple will live in Dearborn where both are employed by the truck engineering division of Ford Motor Co.
