

Area gymnast wins state crown

By Jay Keenan

Gymnastics is a test of physical prowess, to be sure. But a certain psychological ability is also necessary if the gymnast is to be successful.

The sport is one of precision. One erroneous move can cost the competitor a bundle of points.

Realizing this made Canton's Todd Olson a trifle uneasy as he prepared for the U.S. Gymnastics Federation (USGF) Boys' State Championships. But the 14-year-old knew how to handle the situation.

"I just pretended it (the state meet) was just like practice, and I went out there and did it," deadpanned Olson, who trains four days a week at Go-Per Gymnastics in Canton under the coaching of Ron and Cindy Westernman.

OLSON'S FORMULA paid off. He won the all-around competition, taking first in the rings, pommel horse and parallel bars, second in the high bar and floor exercise and a third in the vault. Olson placed in all seven events in the 13-15 boys' age group.

"It felt great to do well," Olson said. "I was surprised."

Olson's performance was not as big a surprise to Westernman. "We're maybe a touch surprised," Westernman said.

"But we look back at it and say, 'He put a lot of work into it and say, 'He put a lot of work into it, so why can't he do it in the meet?'" Olson's composure and ability to overcome nervousness in a meet of this stature earned Westernman's praise.

"WE'RE EXTREMELY pleased that he overcame his fears," the coach said. "Once you're physically able to do gymnastics, the only thing that can hold you back is your mental capability."

Olson, who will be a ninth grader at Pioneer Middle School this fall, got his start in gymnastics when he was 11.

His family lived in Novi at the time and Olson played baseball and hockey.

But his parents, Doug and Evelyn Olson, noticed that their son enjoyed gymnastics. He often did handstands around the house, his mother said.

Encouraged by his parents, Todd joined a beginner's class at Novi Middle School, a program run through the school system.

"I heard about the practices at the school," Todd explained. "So I went there and liked it."

HE ABANDONED his other sports interests in favor of gymnastics.

"We noticed that he liked it," his mother remarked. "So we figured, 'Why not have him put all of his energy in the same sport?' Obviously he liked it more than the others. And he seemed to have that natural ability."

But after three months in the class, the Olsons moved to Canton and Todd was forced to give up his sport for 1 1/2 years. His parents debated whether he should commute back to his old class in Novi or search for something closer to home when they discovered Go-Per Gymnastics, which opened in March, 1981.

The aspiring young gymnast tried out for the Go-Per team last June and made it.

THE GO—FER Gymnastics club, in its first year of USGF competition, has nine male and more than 70 female members. The boys' team is divided into three age groups, ranging from six to 15 years. The girls' divisions are separated by skill instead of age.

The Go-Per girls competed as a team in the state meet, but there were not enough boys to be a factor in the team standings.

Despite its first-year status, the Go-Per club left its mark at the state meet. Olson's first was a big lift for the boys' team, and Dawn Cooper won the uneven parallel bars with a 9.15 point score in an earlier competition for the girls' squad. Cooper finished seventh in the all-around.

So, as Olson and Cooper develop their talent, the Go-Per team should also improve. That makes the outlook for Olson, Cooper, the Westernmans and the Go-Per teams a bright one indeed.

Albion griddier takes to lacrosse

How does a college football player satisfy that competitive urge during his summer vacation?

Greg Lemanski, a junior-to-be at Albion College, finds that a friendly game of lacrosse does the job nicely.

Lemanski, a football lineman during his high school days at Farmington High and now a defensive nose guard at Albion, seems to have found happiness as a midfielder on the Detroit Lacrosse Club.

"I love the game," said Lemanski, a 1980 graduate of Farmington. "It's a lot faster than football. It's kind of like aerial hockey."

The Detroit Lacrosse Club, which opened its season with a recent 15-1 victory over the Toledo Lacrosse Club, plays next Aug. 14, a Saturday, in Columbus, Ohio. The Columbus Lacrosse Club will provide the opposition.

• YOUTH FITNESS MEET

Farmington Hills' failed to win any medals in the annual Metropolitan Detroit Youth Fitness Meet at Kensington Metropark Thursday.

"But the kids had a lot of fun," said Jeff Farland of the Farmington Hills Parks and Recreation Department, which sponsored the 20-member team.

The meet for youngsters aged 10-15 attracted teams from 35 communities. Boys and girls competed in sprints, triple jump, running broad jump, softball throw and chin-ups.

The meet concerns more important things than just winning athletic events.

Sisters prepare for Long Course

But her eye is on 1985 when thousands will again converge on Israel and the worldwide competition between Jewish athletes.

One of those athletes may well be her own older sister, Anita. In the Southfield AAU, the sisters will compete in 400 and 800 free-style competitions but not against one another since events are categorized according to age.

Preliminary competition at the AAU will be at 8 a.m. each morning at the Southfield Civic Center. Finals will be scheduled during evening hours.
