

Metalsmith wins EMU competition

Mark Reed of White Plains Drive, Farmington Hills, has been awarded one of two $500 top prizes in "Metalizing the Michigan Influence," an exhibit at Eastern Michigan University's Ford Gallery through Nov. 24.

Reed's "Taxonomy," a sculpture in stainless steel, fur and ivory, was awarded the prize by jurors Alan Joyous of the Flint Institute of Art, John Paul Miller of the Cleveland Art Institute, and Richard Thomas of the Cranbrook Academy of Art, Bloomfield Hills, three nationally known metalsmiths.

The show, co-sponsored by EMU and the Michigan Silversmiths Guild, is the first competitive exhibition of the works of Michigan metalsmiths. All of the participating artists are current or former residents of the state.

Reed holds a bachelor of fine arts degree from the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, and a master of fine arts degree from Cranbrook. He has been exhibiting his work since 1969. Currently, he is creating a trophy for excellence in design for the General Motors Corp.

"Taxonomy" and another work of Reed's are on display with the work of more than 50 other artists in "Metalizing the Michigan Influence." The Ford Gallery is located in Ford Hall near Cross Street on the EMU campus. The exhibition is free and open to the public. Gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Fall art show is planned

The Student Arts and Humanities Club of Oakland Community College's Southland Campus will open its annual Fall Art Show with a reception at 7 p.m. on Dec. 3.

The exhibit, which will take place at the new Royal Oak Campus located at the corner of South Washington and Lincoln, will continue through Dec. 14. Saturday and Sunday hours are from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Entries will include watercolors, acrylics, oils, mixed media works and sculpture.

This year's featured artist is Royal Oak resident Cathy Peet. Peet was named "featured artist" by the city of Royal Oak in July.
