

Second runs

Tom Panzenhagen

"Tall Story" (1960), 1 p.m. today on Ch. 50. Originally 91 minutes.

Three Hollywood starlets make their film debuts this week, starting with 22-year-old Jane Fonda in "Tall Story," an earnest husband-hunting comedienne (Anthony Perkins) in this dated and silly Joshua Logan comedy. Logan, who is better known for bringing Broadway musicals to the big screen ("South Pacific," "Camelot" and "Paint Your Wagon" among them), does little to keep the lid on this dippy film. Ray Walston, Murray Hamilton and Anne Jackson co-star.

Rating: $2.40.

"Goodbye, Columbus" (1969), 8 p.m. Tuesday on Ch. 50. Originally 105 minutes.

All MacGraw actually debuted in a 1968 film called "A Lovely Way to Die," but "Goodbye, Columbus" is her first starring role. Audiences once marveled at MacGraw's performance as a preppy, thin-skinned, spoiled, rich girl (a.k.a. Jewish American Princess) — until she repeated that performance in "Love Story," "Getaway," "Players" and everything else she's done, including the recent TV-movie "The Winds of War." Incredibly, MacGraw has even continued to play characters in their 20s all this time, even though she was 30 years old in 1969. "Goodbye, Columbus," adapted from Philip Roth's novel, is a very good film, however. Richard Benjamin, in his film debut, and Jack Klugman co-star, and Jaclyn Smith has a minor role.

Rating: $3.10.

"Bill of Divorcement" (1932), 1 Tuesday night on Ch. 50. Originally 69 minutes.

Whatever happened to Katherine Hepburn? Oh, that's right . . . the actress who was 22 when she appeared in "Bill of Divorcement" went on to win five Academy Awards. She's also one of the few actresses to survive the transition from youth to middle age, to old age in the movies. John Barrymore and Billie Burke co-star in "Divorcement," a sappy film about insanity directed by George Cukor.

Rating: $2.30.

"The Alamo" (1960), 1 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 2. Originally 190 minutes.

John Wayne has only himself to blame for two of his worst films, "The Alamo" and "The Green Berets," both of which he directed. Richard Widmark, Laurence Harvey, Richard Boone, Pat Wayne and, believe it or not, Frankie Avalon co-star.

Rating: 20 cents.

"Telefon" (1977), 9 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 102 minutes.

"Telefon," one of Charles Bronson's best films, is one of his least-known films. It's a spy thriller with more angles than Pythagoras, more chills than Nemo, Alaska. Credit veteran director Don Siegel with the packaging. Lee Remick and Donald Pleasence co-star.

Rating: $3.15.

Music featured at workshop

A Choreography, Show Choir and Vocal Jazz Workshop for Students and Teachers will be offered by the Academy of Popular Vocal Arts, in cooperation with Oakland University, July 11-15, in Room 109 at Varner Hall on the OU campus near Rochester.

The workshop will feature nationally known clinicians and composers such as Gene and Audrey Grier, Kirby Shaw and Dan Schwartz. The sessions are designed to present a week of intensive training and activities in Broadway musical show, swing, jazz and popular music performance.

Tuition for this one-week workshop is $49.95 per person. For more information call 666-3037 or write to: "Poppourri Unlimited," P.O. Box 307, Drayton Plains 48020.

'Key Exchange'

Dennis E. North (left), Katie Sikorski and Marc Ciolekajlo are young Manhattan singles who bicycle on weekend excursions in Kevin Wade's Off-Broadway comedy "Key Exchange." The production will open the Hillberry Summer Theatre Festival's Studio repertory Wednesday, July 6, rotating with Milan Silit's courtroom drama "The Runner Stumbles." For ticket information, contact the Wayne State University ticket office at 577-2972.
