used in schools pertinent to minority understanding.

• Review survey of student attitudes and teachers' evaluation of materials and suggestions for change.

• Forward recommendations to appropriate administrators and the school board's curriculum committee.

• In-service training would cover race problems, institutionalized racism, knowledge and understanding of minorities and classroom understanding.

The faculty training program could take such forms as: conferences and lectures, educational materials, teacher exchange, awareness seminars, university accredited courses or adult education courses.

THE REPORT STATED it is necessary for students to have experiences with black persons and other minority persons as teachers.

To obtain this goal, school recruiting personnel are "charged with the responsibility of actively pursuing a policy of hiring persons of racial, ethnic and other minorities."

To achieve this, the personnel director will notify college placement offices of Farmington's intention to hire minorities and assist minorities in obtaining housing in the Farmington Area.

Drug Awareness Series Begins Wednesday For Junior Highs

FARMINGTON The first of three special drug awareness programs will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 13, in Farmington Senior High School and will feature as speaker the chief investigator of Oakland County, Gerald St. Souver, chief investigator for the Oakland County Prosecutor's office, will speak on "Parent Awareness Attitudes Toward Drug Abuse."

THE PROGRAM is the first in an informative series on drugs and drug abuse for parents and other interested community members. The series, entitled "Why Drugs? -- Awareness, Attitudes, Action," is an action program directed at causes of drug abuse in the Farmington Area and is co-sponsored by Farmington junior high schools and the Farmington Area Jaycee Auxiliary.

General Chairman Mrs. Gerald Young of Farmington Junior High explains the purpose of the series is to discover underlying problems and attitudes leading towards drug abuse and to begin taking appropriate preventive steps. "Since prevention of drug abuse has become such a vital issue at all levels of community involvement," she says, "every effort is being made to contact all segments of the community to promote attendance. "It is hoped that a positive action program for prevention of a continued increase in drug abuse will evolve from this series."

THE OTHER TWO programs will also be held in the FHS auditorium and will begin at 8 p.m. "Parent Relationships and the Teenage Drug Addict" is the topic of the May 20 program. Speakers will be Ronald Cowan, consultant to vocational rehabilitation for Oakland County Intermediate School District, and a 17-year-old girl who is a former addict now on rehabilitation.

On June 3, the special speaker will be Arthur Jakonen, dean of students at the Auburn Heights campus of Oakland Community College, will speak on "How Do We React?"

Other members of the planning committee are: Robert Brown, Power Junior High principal; William Martin, Dunckel Junior High assistant principal; Robert Wilson, East Junior High administrative assistant; Mrs. Jane Estep, Dunckel; Greg Frost, East; Philip Cunningham, Farmington Junior, and Gerald Potter, Farmington Jaycee.

Drug Seminar Day Set For May 16 In C'ville

LIVONIA The mayors of Livonia and Westland, in a joint proclamation, have designated Saturday, May 16, as Drug Education Day to stimulate participation in the day long seminar scheduled for that date in the auditorium of Clarenceville High School. An attendance of between 400 and 500 is anticipated to hear talks by members of the medical and legal professions and experts on the drug abuse problem, including Wayne County Circuit Judge John B. Swainson, President of NARCO.

The seminar is intended as the first step in establishing a permanent organization to combat drug use among young people. It is a joint effort of the cities of Livonia and Westland, and the Livonia and Clarenceville School districts. In their proclamations, Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara and Westland Mayor Gene McKinney call for "uncontrolled" use of services, "an imminent threat to all citizens" of their communities. They conclude by urging all citizens to attend the seminar "so that they may be aware of the awesome implications of this social problem."

The seminar will precede national observance of Drug Abuse Prevention Week designated by President Nixon to begin May 24. The President urged both government and private groups to spotlight the dangers of experimenting with narcotics. In his proclamation, Mr. Nixon said the past decade has seen the abuse of drugs grow from essentially a local police problem into a serious threat to the health and safety of millions of Americans.

DRUG ABUSE SEMINAR MAY 16, 1970 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Clarenceville High School Middle Belt Road between 7 and 8 Mile I plan to be a participant. Name: Address: Including Lunch (Price $2) Yes ___ No ___ Please mail above reservation coupon to: Drug Abuse Seminar 15125 Farmington Road Livonia, Mich. 48154

AFTER SPEAKERS conclude their presentations, time will be devoted for audience participation. Following the June 3 session, some form of series evaluation will be held with discussion of how to deal with the drug problem. A $5 cent donation is requested from those attending. Any money left after expenses are paid will be used to purchase materials for the junior high libraries. Planning committee for the series consists of one administrator and teacher from each junior high in Farmington plus members of the Farmington Jaycee Auxiliary. Sub-chairmen assisting Mrs. Young are: Jay C. Cyr of Farmington Junior High, junior high liaison; Mrs. Gerald Potter, speakers and special arrangements; Mrs. Richard Tupper, junior high mothers; Mrs. Harvey Wilson, hostesses; Mrs. Craig Rochafellow, publicity coordinator; and.

Local Group Seeking World War I Vets

FARMINGTON A roll call of all World War I veterans is being taken in the Farmington Area to compile a complete file of veterans and widows still living in the community. According to Andrew Fletcher, past commander of the Farmington Barracks of Veterans of World War I, most veterans are not aware of the many benefits they are eligible to receive because of the vast number of changes in veterans' legislation. Fletcher has requested that every World War I veteran in the area send him his name, address, branch of service, age and marriage status. As soon as the information is received and processed, Fletcher will inform the veteran of a meeting place and date. A department claim officer will be there to explain benefits and answer questions. Veterans of World War I are urged to write Fletcher at 239 Pickett, Farmington, 48024. He will inform the veterans or widows of veterans of the meeting details by letter.

IN A SUPPLEMENT to the report, teachers are advised that the classroom is "a forum and not a committee for producing resolutions or dogmatic pronouncements." "The class should feel no responsibility for reaching an agreement. "It is the teacher's responsibility to bring out the facts concerning controversial questions. He has the right to express his opinions but, in doing so, it is important that his students understand that it is his own opinion and is not to be accepted by them as an authoritative answer." The report also suggests an appeal process for students or parents with complaints about an "unfair or prejudiced" presentation in the classroom by a teacher.

NFH Girl Wins Forensic Honor FARMINGTON Barbara Pape, a senior at North Farmington High School, won third place in the Regional Forensic Contest held at Southfield Lathrup High School April 20. There were 33 schools competing and North's Forensics team team supplied 10 of the finalists. Six areas of the contest include interpretation, oration, radio news-reading, choral reading, extemporaneous speaking and declamation.
