

WXYZ retail market analyst Cynthia Kolitch learns about color splicing her fall look. From the Halston III collection, red-enhanced, black piped suit, $200, black piped red wool coat. J.C. Penney.

Accent basics

Black remains a basic. Sometimes it's color-spliced with white or red.

All shades of gray and warm brown are important.

We see accents of pink fuchsia and yellow adding interest and freshness.

Jewel tones are still popular.

To which we'll add this bit of advice, there is no bigness this season. No big dresses, no big shirts, not even a big sleeve. There is a new narrowness to complement pared down prices.

Two people who have left their mark, Bud Schlain is the genius behind skylight over Kresge Court, Marilyn Schlain was Seaholm High School's assistant principal. His timeless gray wool Brooks Brothers suit is always perfect. Her black wool crepe dress edged with white satin is by Basile, $750. At Claire Pearone.

Businesswoman Cindy Guenther is always looking for clothes that suit a busy lifestyle. Her gray flannel suit with feminine detailing can be transformed into an item that works for the office or an evening on the town, $40. Sears.
