

Young set address a dress code

FALL for tots to teens means the great classics, with plaids rating an A-plus.

Lumberjack, tartans and checkerboards all mix well with the sweaters, sweater sets and vests youngsters are showing enthusiasm about. For keeping warm little people are opting for Fair Isle and cabled knits.

The sports influence is strong. There are racing stripe jackets, rugby shirts and sweats galore. Jogging suits in jewel bright colors will look super great on a Saturday afternoon.

CORDUROY jeans and split skirts topped with plaid shirts and blouses or classic blazers go to the head of the class.

Leg warmers and knee socks in colors and textured patterns will spark up pants and skirts.

Dress-up time will call for sophisticated knits. Grandma's favorite, the Alice in Wonderland pinafore dress, is still charming for little girls. Miniskirts are big for teens, especially when they are worn with colored or patterned opaque hose.

The velvet French school girl dress with white collar and cuffs will be perfect for a party. The same style is adaptable to the classroom when cut in plaid.
