Yogurt—once identified as sour milk—and confined only to health-food addicts is making history. The taste for this exotic refreshment has swept across Europe and North America. Yogurt was first brought to the United States in 1904 by the Turks. In the 1930s, it was rediscovered by health-food addicts, and though its somewhat unusual taste kept it from becoming truly popular, it became the beneficiary of many astounding claims. Once yogurt was changed from something that was supposed to be good for you to something that tasted good (just-flavored now), its success was assured.

For a welcome change eat out today at DANISH INN, 32305 Grand River Ave., 476-5320. We feature a number of Danish Dishes including Danish Meat Balls and Lobster Tails. Pot Flavored Ice Cream. From 8:30 p.m. to closing, playing jazz, boogie and classical music.

HELPFUL HINT: Pineapple used in gelatin desserts should be either canned or cooked.

Musicians Get Awards

Symphonies and students go together like Beethoven, Brahms and Bach.

At least, Plymouth and Redford think they do. In spite of tight budgets, both make provisions for the awarding of scholarships to local students. It's an investment in the future.

The Plymouth Symphony Society made its awards when it hosted students and their parents at a potluck supper this week. Redford's were made last month during its cabaret concert.

PLYMOUTH IS concentrating hopefully on a future string section; Redford is pinning its hopes on older students of proven musical ability and interest.

Until this year, Plymouth made its awards on the basis of contributions to the school music program. This year they held auditions and turned up nine students out of 23 competitors to whom they made cash awards, usually $75. All but one are members of the Plymouth Youth Symphony.

All will use their awards to further their musical education. Most are hoping to attend Interlochen, although two are bound for Schoolcraft College and further studies in their instruments with Plymouth's Conductor Wayne Dunlap and his staff.

Most of the students receiving the awards have been studying four years. About half intend to have a musical career in one form or another, although only Karen Nixon of Livonia, winner of the Schoolcraft College award, hopes to make a career of actually playing in a symphony.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Nixon, she has been accepted by the University of Michigan for further studies in music, the French horn in particular. "Because it's fun,"

The rest of the career-minded music students hope to teach privately or in the schools.

THREE SCHOLARSHIP winners spend about an hour a day practicing. Elaine Bennett, a winner of the highest award, the Isbister Scholarship, admitted that some days she doesn't practice at the cello at all. Other days, she puts in two or three hours at the instrument.

Why do they spend so much time at their instruments, when they might be doing other things? Most reply: "Because it's fun."

Margaret Greenfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Greenfield, summed it up when she said, "practicing is no fun, but getting good is." Margaret is winner of a special Rotary Club award for a winner of the highest award, the Isbister Scholarship, admitted that some days she
