

Amusements Schoolcraft Sets Music Schedule

By BETTY MASSON

Schoolcraft College will be a busy place during July, musically speaking.

Plans and auditions are almost complete for the summer music school, now in its fourth year, under the direction of Wayne Dunlap. It will run from July 6-31.

High school and college students will have a chance to study chamber music, music theory for performers, music literature and special courses in style and musicianship.

Symphony, in giving the students musical training it is not possible to give in high schools. Students must pass an audition before acceptance.

Under the direction of Robert W. Jones, composer-in-residence at the college, a class for young composers will meet several times each week.

All students will take part in regular concerts under faculty direction. Student orchestra concerts will be given July 17 and 31, a chamber music concert on July 24, and a special award concert on July 27.

IN ADDITION outstanding performers are occasionally asked to play with the professional Court Festival Orchestra.

This group made up of members of the summer music faculty and members of the Detroit Symphony, has planned a series for this year highlighting the music of Beethoven and Britten.

The concerts will be at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday evenings, July 8, 15, 22 and 29. Soloists will be announced later.

Concerts are held out-of-doors in an amphitheater.

Students accepted for the school from this area are Elaine Bennett, Carol Farmer, Margaret Greenfield and David McCubbery of Plymouth.

Nancy Adams of Northville, Janet Colebaugh, Ed Burk, Linda J. Croft and Ralph Geiger of Westland; Steve Charette, Steve Cunningham, Martha Eskum, Marcia Jackson, Paul Randall, Charles Roth, Eleanor Roth, Sarah Roth and Margie Steiner, all from Livonia; Frances Hughes of Farmington; Eileen Klein and Kathy Montgomery of Southfield; and David Shepard of Garden City. About 80 students are expected in all.

The Gourmet Adventures of Crisp or creamy—celery is tasty. It is more than just a relish. Turn it into a delightful addition to salads and casseroles. In fact, it's a first-rate vegetable on its own. You might brose celery in chicken broth, then serve with olive butter. Or, top cooked celery with butter-toasted almonds. Don't ever overlook celery. Use it as an appetizer—stuffed with a snappy cheese filling or pour over butter the lady love fish. Serve celery whenever you can... it's quite versatile!

For delightful atmosphere and gourmet food enjoy evening out at DANISH INN, 23205 Grand River Ave. 476-5320. Large Parking lot. Good Wine Selection — all Mixed Drinks and Cocktails... Dover Sole with Almondine, Viking Sword, Roast Prime Rib of Beef and Danish Inn Special. Kriddekker are four of the most popular entrees.

ARTHUR d'ARZIAN

Art Exhibit June 4-13

"Discover Michigan," an exhibit by Alhugan residents enrolled in home-study courses of the Famous Artists School and Famous Photographers School of Westport, Conn., will be on display in the special events area at Northland Center, Southfield, June 4-13.

The exhibits will include more than 200 photographs and paintings.

The art exhibit consists of 50 works by 30 Michigan artists, including Mrs. Carolyn A. McKeever of Garden City.

Exhibiting photographs from this area will be Dennis Sparks and C. R. Stern of Westland, Martin Booth and David Bulboz of Farmington, and Michael D. Wolfe, James X. Conkin and Randy Howell of Livonia.

Arthur d'Arzian, industrial photographer, and Franklin McMahon, artist-reporter, will serve as co-hosts at the official opening at 10 a.m.

D'Arzian has logged over a million miles in industrial photography. He has descended into the depths of mines, climbed water towers and found transportation in every conceivable type of vehicle. His work is represented in museums and galleries throughout the U.S.

Youth Symphony Plans Auditions

Talented young musicians in the Detroit metropolitan area will have an opportunity to join the Detroit Youth Symphony Orchestra. Their applications must be in by June 8, and first auditions are set for Monday, June 15, from 1 to 6 p.m. in Ford Auditorium, Detroit.

Application forms are available from music educators in the area or by calling the orchestra's offices at 961-0700, ext. 7.

THE YOUTH ORCHESTRA is being organized to provide an opportunity for talented musicians to obtain experience in a professionally-oriented atmosphere. However, one proviso for membership is that the applicant does not drop out of school, band or orchestra activities.

Channel 56 Auction Set For Monday

More than 1,000 volunteers and 200 celebrity auctioneers will begin an effort to earn over $25,000 from goods and services donated by local merchants to Channel 56 TV. Each gift will be auctioned on Channel 56 TV during a week-long marathon June 1 through 7. The show will be broadcast from Tel-Twelve Mall, Southfield, beginning at 2 p.m. Monday, and each day from 2 p.m. to midnight or later.

"Since we are not allowed to have commercials, we depend almost entirely on the community," states this year's auction general chairman, Mary Fisher. "Without auction funds, we would be unable to bring such outstanding programs as 'Sesame Street,' 'The Foray Saga,' 'NET Journal,' and many others."

Already donated and ready for sale are a Fiat sports car, a Mustang Mach 1, $2500 worth of J. L. Hudson Co. gift certificates, 10 telephone booths, vacation trips to Spain, London, Boyne Lodge, a houseboat, a piano, a tape recorder, a sailboat and radio advertising time.

Rehearsals will be held Saturday afternoons from early October through April or May in Ford Auditorium. Plans are being considered to hold sectional rehearsals under the guidance of members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. At least two concerts are planned.

DUKE ELLINGTON, in Detroit recently for a concert with the Symphony, announced that he would help create the first scholarship as part of the over-all program. He volunteered his support at a meeting of 40 local music educators with Symphony representatives.

Conductor of the new orchestra will be Paul Freeman, recently appointed conductor-in-residence of the Symphony. He has served as associate conductor of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra for the past two years.

Music advisor will be Sixten Ehrling, noted music director and conductor of the Detroit Symphony. He will conduct the Youth Orchestra in rehearsals on occasion. It is also planned to have guest conductors.

Helping with the planning were Paul Ganson, assistant principal bassoonist with the Detroit Symphony, who will also serve as administrator of the youth orchestra, Marshall W. Turkin, general manager of the Detroit Symphony; and Merle Alvey, president of the Detroit Federation of Musicians.

Bird Watchers To Visit Seven Ponds Center

At 8 a.m. Sunday, June 7, the Detroit Audubon Society will conduct a field trip in the Seven Ponds Nature Center in Lapeer County. Members of the Society hope to see both water and land birds, as well as some late migrants.

Both members and non-members are invited, and are urged to wear hiking clothes and stout shoes or boots.

Other equipment should include binoculars, a notebook and pencil, and a field guide to the birds. Those wishing to attend may call the Audubon Office.

Art Club Has Exhibit

Members of the Three-Cities Art Club are currently exhibiting their works in the downstairs lounge of the Waterman Center Student Activities Building at Schoolcraft College, Haggerty Rd.

Mrs. Marie Bonamici of Northville, president of the club, has arranged the show.

Members who paintings are shown are Jessie Hudson and Hazel Begole of Plymouth; and Jane Gaitzell, Marc Jensen, C. Phelps Hines, Mrs. Bonamici and Catherine Hartley, all of Northville.

OPENS AT PENTHOUSE—Judy Carroll, vocalist-pianist, will appear at the Livonia Penthouse Mondays through Fridays from 5 to 9 p.m., beginning June 1. Miss Carroll, who started her musical career in Indiana, was formerly in Detroit with radio station WJR.
