Bishop Gallagher was also questioned about his committee's statement that "the U.S. Bill of Rights gurantees the right of life to every American" — in light of the 14th Amendment's definition of a citizen as "a person born or naturalized." The Bishop smilled and reglets. "Well, this was one of the secretalists we brought up."

A SIMILARLY significant attitude was shown by Brookhyn's Bishop Perects Mekero. Is he or any other New York Bishop planning a campaign to repeal that state's recently passed legislation (allowing abortion for any reason) — or to try to defeat any legislator who voted for this bill?

The same sort of tolerance was shown by Detroit's arch-bishop, John Cardinal Dearden - even as a Women's Liberation picket line was marching in front of the hotel, loudly chanting: "Women control their own bodies - male Bishops don't!"

CARDINAL DEARDEN, president of the Bishops Con-ference, was gentle in his comment on the marching women. He did not refer to them as either advocates of "marder-in-the-womb," or advocates of "Mazi practices", as have some of the less-estrained Catholic traditional-sits.

The Bishops' tolerant atti-tude seemed to evoke immedi-ate objection, however, in the type of lengthy rebukes presented as press conference questions by a writer for the ultraconservative periodical. "The Wanderer", and by Brent Bozell, brother-in-law of William Buckley and publisher of "Triumph" magazine.

Just prior to the bishops conference, the National Catholic News Service distributed an article entitled "The Reality of Abortion" - which the "National Catholic Reporter" subheadlined: "I Drew Out A The Elbow."
