

Suburban Reps Back $5 Million For Detroit

LANSING Observersland state representatives voted 4-2 in favor as the House last week failed to pass an omnibus budget bill containing a $5 million "no-strings" grant to the City of Detroit.

The bill drew 69 favorable votes but needed 74 to pass because a grant to a specific community requires a two-third vote. Opposed were 30 representatives.

Backing the bill were Reps. John Bennett (D-Redford), Vincent Pettipren (D-Westland), James Tierney (D-Garden City) and Richard Young (D-Dearborn Heights).

Opposed were Reps. Raymond Baker (R-Farmington) and Marvin Stempien (D-Livonia).

ON AN EARLIER vote, the House defeated 26-76 an amendment offered by an Allen Park Democrat to strike the $5 million Detroit grant from the bill.

Opposed to the amendment (and in favor of the grant) were Bennett of Redford, Pettipren of Westland and Stempien of Livonia.

Favoring the amendment to cut Detroit funds were Baker of Farmington and Tierney of Garden City.

Thus, Baker was consistent in his opposition to the grant, although it had been proposed by a fellow Republican, Gov. William G. Milliken.

Young didn't vote on the amendment.

STEMPEN AND Young were joined by another Democrat, John T. Kelsy of Warren, in sponsoring an unsuccessful amendment to increase the grant to $10 million and extend it to all cities or the need-priority basis.

House leaders over the weekend were trying to round up another half-dozen or so votes in order to pass the omnibus budget bill, which had a total price of $56.8 million.

Some suburban legislators complained of "fat cats" on Detroit's city council.
