

Business and Pleasure

"Business or pleasure" is the way most people say it—and to many of them the two are as far apart as the poles.

We have reason to look at it differently. It's a real pleasure for us to do business here in our modern building, where we have at hand every facility for service.

And our customers, too, find their business a pleasure when it brings them here, where in addition to the conveniences and complete equipment of our offices, they enjoy the friendly atmosphere and cheerful service that is characteristic of the

Leisure and Longer Life

The trouble about running a home is the trouble of running it. This trouble is promptly cut in half when you let electricity do your heavy and bothersome tasks. At the same time, your leisure for reading, sewing, and social relaxations is doubled. Health is preserved, life is lengthened and made more enjoyable by the use of electrical household helps. We want to show you how easily and how cheaply you can do household work by electricity. Won't you drop in at our office today, and give us the opportunity?

MEN'S CLASS

Mr. J. H. McBride of Evington, Mich. will address the men's class of the M. E. S. next Sunday at 7 o'clock. Mr. McBride is superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday School in Birmingham and is interested in the Exchange club and other civic interests in that village.

General invitation is given to the men of this community to be present.

A new kind of a sermon will be delivered at the Methodist Church on Sunday evening called "The Visible Sermon." The theme will be "Lights, High and Low." The difference from the regular sermon is that it can be seen, and thus, its meaning and teachings more readily grasped and retained.

The pastor will be the preacher. A musical program will precede the visible sermon.

A crowded house saw "The Covered Wagon" at the Community Hall on Tuesday and enjoyed to the full that amazing spectacle which portrays the struggles of the pioneer and the settler. For vastness of its spaces, the thrill of its adventure and the intensity of its situations, perhaps a picture its equal has ever been made.

"The Covered Wagon" will be shown again on Saturday at the Community Hall. Many people have seen the picture as many as three times and are eager to see it again! It's that kind of a picture.

OUTSIDE PENS MAKE BID FOR EGG HONORS
Prize hens from sixteen states and Canadian provinces are competing against "Michigan's own" for top honors in the third International egg laying contest which opened its year's run at the Michigan Agricultural College on November 1.

From Texas in the southwest to New York in the northeast, "foreign" pens of high producing birds have been entered among the contestants in the long race. Two Canadian provinces, Ontario and Alberta, are included in the roster, along with Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Missouri, Washington, Oregon, Texas, and New York.

Michigan pens won all the top honors in the 1923-24 contest, which closed the end of October, but with a greater percentage of outside entries than ever before in the running this year, managers of
