

'Carnival' To Be Heard

Saint-Saens' "Carnival of the Animals" will be performed at the Meadow Brook Festival, Rochester, 41-30 p.m., Sunday, June 28. Gerence Kilburn will recite the Agony Nash poems which accompany the work. Kilburn is a member of Oakland University's Academy of Dramatic Art, where he is a director and actor. Arthur Fiedler will conduct the performance by the Detroit Symphony and duopians Anthony and Joseph Paratore. Other works performed on the first Symphony Pops will be Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance, March No. 1," Weber's Overture to "Der Freischutz," Poulenc's "Concerto in D Minor for Two Pianos and Orchestra." Book's selection from "Fiddler on the Roof," and Lennon and McCartney's "Eleanor Rigby."

Tickets for all Meadow Brook Festival Concerts are on sale at Hudson's, Grinnell's and the Festival Box Office. For information about season subscriptions, coupon books or group discounts, call 962-0353 (toll free from Detroit), or the university at 377-2000, ext. 2385.

MARIANNE ILG is singing in the big band style at Lofy's in Plymouth. She is accompanied by the widely known band leader, Don Pablo, who also supplies solos on piano and organ. They appear at 8 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays, and 9 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

Dance Special Features Basie

The nationally famous Count Basie and his orchestra will provide music for the first dance special entitled "Salute To Jazz" at Metropolitan Beach along Lake St. Clair near Mount Clemens Sunday, June 28. Dance hours are 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

Detroit Youth Symphony Gets Further Auditions

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra was swamped with young musicians in its recent tryouts for the new Detroit Symphony Orchestra, and as a result has scheduled more auditions for July 17 and Aug. 27. Final auditions will take place during the weeks of Sept. 4 and 21.

One aspiring musician will have an opportunity to serve as concertmaster of the new symphony. Gordon Staples, concertmaster of the Detroit Symphony, announced that a scholarship has been set up and the winner will work and study with him as concertmaster.

MORE THAN 300 applications were received prior to the June 8 deadline, and applications are still being accepted, according to Paul Ganson, assistant principal bassoonist. "I am really very pleased about the response and tremendously impressed with the musical abilities of many of the youngsters," he said. "Some of course, do not meet the very high standards set for the orchestra. However, I have no doubt that we will be able to complete the membership."

More than 250 metropolitan area young people were at Ford Auditorium to demonstrate their musical abilities before panels of leading Detroit music educators and members of the Symphony. Every section of the orchestra was represented.

Dr. Paul Freeman, newly appointed conductor-in-residence of the Detroit Symphony, who will also serve as conductor of the Youth Orchestra, said, "We will have a very fine nucleus with which to work and we will continue to explore all possibilities in an attempt to get the most deserving young people to participate."

In addition to providing an opportunity for talented young musicians to receive additional orchestral experience in a professionally-oriented environment, the Detroit Symphony Youth Orchestra will serve as a training orchestra for the Detroit Symphony. A wide variety of music will be read and performed, thus providing further exposure to the vast orchestral literature. Last month, Duke Ellington announced that he would help create the first scholarship in the program.

Application forms are available from music educators in the area, or by calling the orchestra's offices at 961-0700, extension 7.

Quo Vadis Splits; Now Becomes 4

Quo Vadis, roughly translated, means "where are you going?" For the Quo Vadis theaters in Westland the answer is in the direction of greater variety under one roof.

The Shaffers report it is not unusual for patrons to see more than one movie in an evening.

The horse-opera buffs will want to see John Wayne's latest, "Chisum." It also stars Forrest Tucker.

It will be showing in Penthouse 1. In Penthouse II is "Anne of the Thousand Days," and downstairs, in the old, reduced, Quo Vadis is "Beneath the Planet of the Apes."

Another Quo Vadis is being added to the three presently open in the entertainment center on Wayne Road. It opens Wednesday, July 1, with a controversial film, "Platoon, A Salute to a Rebel." The original Quo Vadis opened June 21, 1966.

The Shaffer family, owner of the center, has provided four theaters under one roof by converting the lower floor into separate twin theaters, to be known as Quo Vadis Theatre I and II. Each has a seating capacity of 600. Upstairs are Penthouse 1 and II, each seating 400.

PATRONS WILL thus have a choice of four separate first-run movies in one location. If they prefer the out-of-doors, a fifth choice, the Algiers Drive-In, is right next door.

THE UPPER FLOOR also contains a dining and cocktail lounge, the "Over 21 Club." A special rate is available Sunday through Thursday for dinner and the movies.

The Shaffers believe that variety is the key to success in the movie business. They report that a blueprint for a fifth theater is now on the planning board. It will occupy an entire new floor at the center.

Dune Buggies 'In'

About 80,000 Americans own dune buggies. These are small, car chassis shortened about 14 inches, with a fiberglass body and balloon tires. Originally they were made by individuals for use on sandy beaches.
