

Views of Paris

"The Work of Atget: The Art of Old Paris," an exhibition of art of the French photographer Eugene Atget (1857-1927) continues through Sunday, April 1, in the Albert and Peggy de Salte Gallery of Photography at the Detroit Institute of Arts. The 117 photographs depict urban scenes, architectural views and artistic motifs that recreate the atmosphere of the French capital prior to its transformation in the 19th century. Atget was a commercial photographer who worked in and around Paris for 30 years.

Tuesday Musicales to meet

The Tuesday Musicales of Pontiac meeting on Tuesday will be dedicated to the Crusade for Strings featuring David J. Reese and Dale Anderson, string bass.

Reese is a graduate of Wayne State University, principal bass with the Birmingham-Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra and is also affiliated with the Saginaw Symphony Orchestra and Michigan Opera theatre.

Anderson, a free-lance musician is with the Saginaw Symphony Orchestra and a member on the Montage String Quartet.

The piano duo of Helen Schmitz and Margaret Warzak is also on the program.

The meeting is at 1 p.m. at Central United Methodist Church, 3882 Highland Road, Pontiac.
