

James New York presents for spring the fresh look of linen in this double breasted jacket with pointed collar available at Mitzi Selfeld's
170 W. Maple Birmingham

Summer sequins in blue are Noll Bloff's interpretation of a color-applied sizzler, over $1000, Saks Fifth Avenue. The popularity of the gale gown continues right into the warmer weather.

Joan Weiss is all set for entertaining at a new apartment in the Riverfront wearing evening beads and glitter from Bettina, about $900. Husband Albert's Lou Miles beige wool gabardine, double-breasted suit, $795, and brown silk dress shirt, $85, are from Kosina.

A collector's item among collectibles is Rosanne Schiussoli's choice for summer glamour. Geometric shapes in bright spring colors on a background of black, $1800, from Hattie Inc. Bracelet, $45, earrings, $125.

darkest Africa. Add these to the soft pastels of the Impressionists and you will view daytime dressing as a walking canvas.

Then there are the unforgettable Americana classics, which are as timeless as an ancestral portrait. Always and forever appropriate are the designs by Ralph Lauren and Perry Ellis, who add the look of quality and refinement to the season.

TO DEMONSTRATE how these looks will influence the way we look at spring '84 we have taken real people from the Detroit community and used them to model the newest fashions because we believe everyone wants to know how they will really look. The result tells us that no matter what height, coloring or body type the clothes this season work. They give each person who wears them a look that is hers, or his, alone. Frequently we tried a look radically different from one normally associated with that person. The result, in every case, was one of happy surprise.

As work progressed we quickly realized that no one color, style or design dominates the spectrum of what we will be wearing. Influences came from nature, the tropics, foreign intrigue, our own wanderlust, and the seduction of romance.

This is going to be a great time for choices.
