

Students get taste of college life

High school students will have the opportunity to study anatomy and examine a human heart in one of the sample college classes to be presented when Mercy College of Detroit sponsors its "College for a Day" program Friday, May 11.

High school students will be able to experience a taste of college life by attending special classes taught by Mercy's faculty and designed to introduce students to areas of study they may be considering.

Classes offered in the one-day look at college include: "Figures in Your Future" (accounting); "Genetics" (biology); "The Super-Baby Syndrome: The Push for Early Learning" (child development); "Computermania" (computer science); "Urban America: The Rise in Violent Crime" (criminal justice); "Where Does Fashion Begin?" (fashion merchandising); "The High Cost of Health Care" (medical ethics); and "Computers in Nursing" (nursing). Students may also choose from introductory classes in prelaw, psychology, business and social work.

Other sessions will focus on paying for a college education and forecasting job opportunities. Campus tours also will be available.

"College for a Day" will begin at 9 a.m. with registration in the Mercy College Conference Center. Sessions will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue until 2:30 p.m., with a break at noon for lunch.

Admission to the program is free for high school students and their parents; a buffet lunch and sundae bar will be available at $3.50 per person.

Mercy College of Detroit is at 6200 W. Outer Drive, at the Southfield Freeway, just south of Seven Mile Road in Detroit.

For reservations and for additional information, call the Admissions Office at 592-6030.
