

International Institute offers language classes

An invitation is out to discover the culture of a new land in the International Institute's language classes.

The classes begin Monday, Sept. 10 and run for 10 weeks. They are designed to teach the language for fun, with special emphasis on the culture of those lands.

Spanish, Italian and German classes will be held Mondays and Wednesdays, while Japanese, Arabic and French classes will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays. Times are 6 to 8 p.m.

CLASSES ARE conducted by native-speaking, experienced teachers who enjoy exploring their mother culture through films, visual aids and conversation. An authentic ethnic feast, an evening of special activities and 36 hours of classroom instruction are included for $150 tuition. The classes are limited to a maximum of 15 and a minimum of eight students, to insure that a small group learning environment will prevail.

To register, send a first payment of at least $20 to Cora Lee Sterling at the International Institute, 111 E. Kirby, Detroit 48202. Checks should be made payable to the International Institute.

The last day to register is the second class meeting. For more information, contact Sterling at 871-4600 during business hours on Tuesdays or Wednesdays.

"Our foreign language teachers are dedicated to making the classes a full ethnic enrichment experience," said Mary Ball, executive director at the International Institute. "They give students insight into tradition and customs that an academic language class cannot offer."

U-M Dearborn hosts exhibit

The University of Michigan-Dearborn is inviting area art collectors and artists to submit photographs of their works to be included in the third annual art exhibition, "The Dearborns Collect," in the University Library.

The exhibition, which will run from Nov. 5 to Dec. 10, will feature works of art from Dearborn and Dearborn Heights, including works by artists who lived, studied, or taught in those cities or who have other close connections with the area.

Color slides of works to be considered must be submitted by Monday, Sept. 17. Submissions will be reviewed by a panel of Detroit area art collectors, including W. Hawkins Ferry, architectural historian from Grosse Pointe; William Bortick, artist and former administrator of the Detroit Institute of Arts; and Ferdinand Hampson, a gallery owner from Lathrop Village.

An opening reception for the Dearborn and Dearborn Heights community is scheduled for Nov. 9. In 1982 and 1983, the exhibition featured some 100 works, including art works by Marc Chagall, Henri Matisse, Frank Stella, August Renoir and Victor Vasarely. Local artists represented have included Zubei Kachadorian, Thomas Briody, Joseph Marks, Otis Sprow and Sylvia Wood.

A registration form can be obtained by calling Betty Gauthier at 593-5400.

Tour slated

Doors of the historic structures will be open for visitors noon to 3 p.m. Sunday for the home tour, part of Ypsilanti's 1984 Heritage Festival. Pictured are several 19th century commercial buildings. Other treats on the tour are: a Gerson Anna House, two apartments in a converted mansion, and several unusual Italian structures. Tickets are available at ticket booths in front of the Ypsilanti Historical Museum and on the circle in Riverside Park.
