Unveil Arena Plans Monday

Continued from Page 1A events at the school, a total of 700 parking spaces could be available. The school district could also use the arena by expanding its physical education curricu-lum to include skating instruc-tion and hockey classes.

tion and hockey classes. The schools would use the ice rink during normal "dead time," which is the hours the facility would not be rented to groups or open for recreational skating.

about the project.

bond issue to build the arena. Of the total revenue, an esti-mated 36,000 would come from fees charged for open recrea-tional skating. Probable charges would be 30 cents for resident children an 30 cents for non-resident children; 50 cents for resident adults and $1 for non-resident adults and $1 for non-resident adults. RICHARDSON, who was assigned site location, says the FHS property is the most logi-cal and inexpensive location. Richardson has been talking informally with school afficials about the project.

A revenue source on which Ellis did not speculate is reve-nue from spectators for organ-ized hockey games. This source could be a bonus to off-set what Dinan thinks is an optimistic estimate of attend-ance at weekend general skat-ing sessions. Ellis, assigned a study con-struction cost and building de-sign, enlisted Councilman John Allen, who's also a Farmington architect. Allen drew up the preliminary site plan and building design.

The arena would be the larg-est such facility in the Detroit area after the Olympia, home of the Detroit Red Wings. The ice rink would be 200 by 85 feet, which is an olympic size rink. Full use of the facility dur-ing summer months for com-mercial displays, antique shows, teen dances, and other entertainment would increase the annual take above the $90,000 estimate.

The building would include dressing rooms, restrooms, two meeting rooms, a goods shop, and large foyer area. DINAN BELIEVES the rena can be operated on a self sustaining basis at no cost to taxpayers. Conservative esti-mates indicate the biggest subsidy which might be neces-sary would be $5,000 per year. The 43,000 square-foot build-ing could be constructed and site developed for $1 million. Estimated minimum life of the facility is 50-75 years.

If the school agrees to do-nate the property, the city is expected to hold at least one public educational meeting to present the proposal to city residents. ELLIS ESTIMATES that with an aggressive ice rental program at $35 per hour, the facility could realize an annual profit of $90,000 which is the amount needed to retire the bond issue to build the arena.

Richardson expresses hope the arena can be used as a playing site for a Junior A hockey team sponsored by the Red Wings. The wings are re-portedly interested in sponsor-
