Y preschool has openings

Parents interested in enrolling their pre-schoolers in the Northwest Branch YWCA School Readiness Program are invited to call the YWCA at 537-8500. The program, which is licensed by the state, has been running at full capacity for the past two years. For the first time there are a few vacancies open in several of the sessions which are given in the YWCA building, 23940 Grand River. The sessions for 4-year-olds, one which meets Monday and Friday afternoons and one which meets Wednesday afternoons, have a few vacancies. There are several spaces available for 3-year-olds on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Although the session is under way, children may enroll at any time there is a vacancy and the fee will be pre-paid. The YWCA is a Torch Drive Agency.

Singers can compete for scholarships

Maccabees Mutual Life Insurance Co. and Madrigal Chorale of Southfield announce the establishment of a scholarship competition available to Oakland County vocal students of high school age. The program will afford the opportunity for 15 finalists to perform in a live program and will award $300 to each of four individual winners. The live competition for 15 local musicians is set for Saturday, March 9, in Lathrup High School. The competition will be judged by a panel including John Gulin, music critic for the Detroit Free Press; Harry Langford, director of Wayne State University's Mens Glee Club; Donald Sinta, professor at University of Michigan and assistant director of the Interlochen All State Program; Carolyn Grimes, soprano soloist and private voice teacher; and Carolyn Eynon, music director for Madrigal Chorale of Southfield. Application blanks are available by calling Pat Duensing at 646-2937.

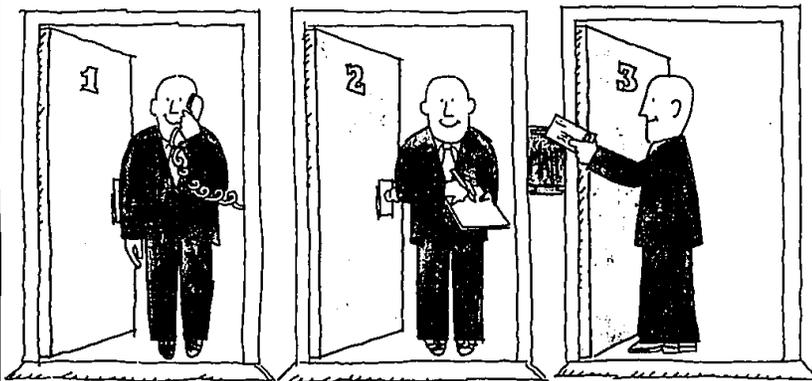

Uninitiated to learn of lacrosse

Michigan Scholastic Lacrosse Association hosts a program for the uninitiated and rookie Lacrosse parents at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 7, in Detroit Country Day School's Learning Center, in back of the school at 15 Mile and Lasher roads in Beverly Hills. Students, players and coaches are also welcome to the free basic-instructional seminar that will be conducted by coaches of existing programs who will tell the game rules, possible strategies and game situations. Films and player demonstrations will be used to visually convey the fitness and nuances of the game. Inquiries will be taken by Art Hoffman, or Bob Dowd, at 646-2717.

Storyteller tells tales

Professional storyteller Ruth Kroepel is guest for Farmington Exchange Club's meeting that begins at noon Wednesday in Farmington Elks Lodge, 23666 Orchard Lake Road. Guests are invited to call Robert Van Every at 474-6610 for reservations or information about club membership.
