

What's hot?

Sporting lots of color

WHAT'S HOT? Classic, refined sportswear, but done up in the distinctive style of 1985.

Because today's active men and women demand comfort and movement in everything that they wear, this season's sportive fashions are not only cut for comfort they are totally body conscious. Women's wear is figure flattering and feminine, designed with a tip of the hat to the past but cut with a wonderful sense of being totally modern. Men's wear is not only easy and casual, it exudes a sense of confidence that permits him to complement the mood with unstructured, carefree contours, which like hers travel the gamut of color from the palest natural shades to the hot brights.

Cindy Droll creates a dazzling blue mood wearing Liz Claiborne separates, sweater, $55, split skirt, $65, shoes, $98. Lord & Taylor.

WHAT'S HOT? Skirt lengths that run the gamut, from super short to below midcalf. Pencil thin or relaxed as they haven't been in years, some of the best designs we've seen for the woman on the move are best complemented by power color hose and matching footwear.

WHAT'S HOT? Prints in all scales, from tiny garden party florals to bold, wild tropical designs. What's newest? Wearing mismatched prints in pairs and trios.

WHAT'S HOT? The oversized men's shirt... the "high society" cardigan... the big polo top... the rib-knit mini skirt... the long pleated skirt... the trumpet flare skirt... pants pleated at the waist... the fuller leg pant that is slightly tapered at the ankle.

That's what's hot!

Betty Jean Rivkin of Bloomfield Hills divides her time between career as hostess of TV show "Healthy Living" and role as wife to a busy surgeon. Her sunny outlook is enhanced by Jeanne Marc's big shirt jumpsuit, $230, from Bonwit Teller.

Pat Stemple is a worldwide traveler who knows the value of versatile clothing. Transitional clothing such as this batik print shirt and skirt, $220, are perfect travel companions. Roz & Sherr, Bloomfield Plaza.

Jeanne Dubin of Birmingham enhances a busy, active life with brilliant shades and comfort as in this red parachute cloth silk kinkie big jacket and black skinny pants, $124, Leotards Etc., Bloomfield Plaza.

Cynthia Weber of Redford, director of catering at Sheraton 12-Oaks in Novi, wears tropical spring, fluid two-piece dressing. Top, $52, skirt, $52, linen jacket, $90, from August Max. Bracelets from Mason's. Twelve Oaks Mall.

Private tutor Carol Larkin of Orchard Lake wears Anne Klein II linen jacket, $144, camp shirt, $160, Khaki linen skirt, $84. Hudson's. Husband Leo, a Ford Motor vice president in charge of insurance operations, wears light brown pinstripe suit by Hart, Schaffner and Marx, $340, shirt by Damon, $24, Dior paleisly silk tie, $18.50. Anton's, Twelve Oaks Mall.

Real estate agent and busy mother Sandy Demetriou of Birmingham juggles a multiple career wearing versatile cheerful brights such as Flora Kung's geometric prints, $156. Pumps, $68. Lord & Taylor.

Former Kingswood School admissions director Beverly Hoglund of Birmingham is a dedicated volunteer whose busy schedule calls for globe-hopping trips with husband Bill, recently named to head the new Saturn project by General Motors. Her colorful oversize striped jacket is by Bernard Perrie, Claire Pearone, Somerset Mall.