Think About

BOB ROCK

CONFIDING YOUR WISHES

Unless you take certain common sense measures now, the arrangements for your funeral and burial may turn into a source of conflict and misery among your loved ones. It is not enough to confide your wishes to your spouse or perhaps a close friend. Other relatives may take exception to certain arrangements and try to override such wishes and even take over the responsibility together—particularly if you have entrusted this to a friend.

Your best course is to tell all involved parties what you have decided so there is no question about it later. You may even wish to name the responsible party in your Will, or in a "Letter of Instruction," along with specific wishes. Unless you do this, there is a good chance that such responsibility will be turned over to your closest living relative, regardless of your relationship to the person, and arrangements made alien to your wishes.
