Sweet campanions for a retirement

Girl Scout cookies have followed us line retirement, and they're the same delicious and cherished companions they always were. We have been of all packaged-in-a-box cookies. With four Girl Scout daughters, we used to have stacks of the boxes filling the dining from. Later there would be as many boxes as possi-ble filling the freezer. Joe and I always said it looked as though we had enough to last until the recut daughters always helped the cookies disappear much sconer.

cookles disappear much sooner. I MET GIRL Scout cookies, Florida style, soon alfer getting here. I attend-ed an open house and there they were on the teat table. It urned out that the hostess is a retired social worker who used to be with the Girl Scout organiza-tion. She said she always serves Girl Scout cookker. I've been to her home Tseveral times since and it's true. She "must have a REALLY big freezer." Last year I had the chance to acquire Some cookies of our own when the Smother of a Girl Schoul hander and torder blank. I went hog wild and signed torder blank. I went hog wild and signed "Went are on the size of our own thas?" Joe wanted to know when I brough home the stack of boxes. But for quite a few weeks. BUT BEFORE COOKIE sale time could roll around again, we had changed our eating habits a lot. We were consuming far less sweets and had practically cut out desserts. So I didn't worry when I didn't scc and order blank this year. But when I spot-ted the tables and the green-chind gifts in a supermarket, I couldn't resist buy-ing a box of minis for old-time's sake. "Is that all you got?" was Joe's ques-tion this time. Well, we weren't sup-peed to be cating them, I noted. But we both knew we wuid. We each had a motior. Furthermore, I checked a round to find out if there would be sales at other supermarkets. I was on hand to get several out of the several super-ted wetwed. The foreces cull holds several of
