Training center is $2,000 richer

A first-time auction sponsored by Farmington Kiwanis Club enabled club members to hand over a check for $2,000 to Farmington Training Center.

The money will be used to replace an outdated sound system in the center's auditorium.

Auction has been earmarked for donations to other local charities and agencies.

About 100 area merchants contributed merchandise, gift certificates or services for the event. Dr. Don Reifschneider, president of the club, took his turn as auctioneer with city councilmen Al Bennett of Farmington, and Joe Alkateeb of Farmington Hills.

The club gathers for its weekly luncheon meetings in Prince of Peace Lutheran Church. Members expect to repeat the successful fund-raiser next spring.
