

Families needed to host exchange students

This summer, approximately 200 French and Spanish exchange students will visit Michigan for four weeks as part of the North Atlantic Cultural Exchange League (NACEL) summer program.

Host families are needed to host the foreign exchange students who will arrive in Michigan on July 2.

Area coordinators for the NACEL are Julian and Evelyn Prince of West Bloomfield, who have been involved with the exchange program for 10 years.

Michigan has earned a good reputation in France for making students and host families happy, says Evelyn Prince.

"In fact, more French students have been invited back this summer to Michigan than to any other state," Prince says.

Because of Michigan's success rate with the program, 170 French students along with 30 Spanish students will spend the month of July experiencing American lifestyles.

"Even though we have received an excellent response to this year's program, we still need many more host families," Prince says.

Host families do not have to speak French or Spanish; students have had from four to eight years of English language study.

Transportation, insurance and spending money is provided for the students by their parents. Host families are asked to provide food and lodging while welcoming the teen into the family. Orientation handbooks are provided to host families.

Program organizers match students with prospective families according to general interests and specific activities in which they would like to participate, says Prince.

"Some Michigan families take their guests on trips while others stay home," she says.
