A nun whose seefmity reflects itself in her art has just returned from a trip to Europe with a group of teenagers, and she is still serene.

She is Sister Mary Ignatius, head of the art department in Farmington's Our Lady of Mercy High School. Along with Sister Edna Marie of the school's music department, she was responsible for If girl students and four boys on a trip to Europe under the Foreign Study League Auspices. In the morning, the students spent some four hours in studying the history and culture of the country they give visiting, and in the afternion they went out to see some of the things they had been talking about. Called a Comparative Culture and Governithent program, particular attention was paid to the music and art of each country they visited.

I am firmly convinced that being constructively busy is what children need right now." She emphasized the work "constructive" saying "child-ren can also be busy getting into a lot of mischief."

Although she has a great and unquestioning faith, 'belonging to God makes me happy,' teaching in a girl's high school does not permit her to live in anivory tower.

"Knowledge and education are important...every field is becoming more and more competitive, and people who are not buy studying now are going to regret it."

But, she pointed out, child-ren can only absorb knowledge to the degree that they are mature, and maturity takes time, although it can be helped with responsibility and chal-lenges.

goodness. Sin is sadaess."

The talented Sister evidently lives by her own precepts. With the help of another Mercy ann, Sister Benedicta Mary, she is responsible for about 200 at students, who each year turn out outstanding work. Last year. In a national poster contest, one of the students took first place, and the school come home with some 50 citations, commendations and honorable mentions.

The collegians spend two days a week in the parishes, where they consult with their high school workers, resolve problems and suggest improvements. And, in turn, the CYO staff meet with the collegians each week to review their work.

CYO staffers Claude Elliott. Ray Hillen and Miss Massaquoi played a major part in putting the program together. Free Wright, a teacher at St. Martin de Porres High School, is serving as the CYO coordinator for the 10-week program.

Appearances of Rickey the Clown of TV and circus fame are scheduled at 1 and 2:30 p.m. Helicopter rides for those who wish to see Garden City from the air will cost $4 for adults and $3 for children.

The Augsburg Lutheran Church, 24801 West Chicago, Redford Township, will honor its pastor, the Rev. Is A. Swan, with a reception from 6 to 10 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 30, in Sokol Hall, Warren and Telegraph, Dearborn. Dearborn. Rev. Swan is retiring after 19 years at Augsburg Church and 38 years in the ministry.

18th Festival Set In Romulus

The 18th annual homecoming festival of St. Aloysius Catho-lic Church of Romulus will be held on the parish grounds, 11280 Ozga Road, from Satur-day, Sept. 5 to Monday, Sept. 7.

Special features will a be a magic show by Mr. Whoodini of CKLW-TV and a western performance by Buck Buch-anan. Chicken, ham and spa-getti dinners will be served.
