Aviation Group Inc. last week opened its $6-million Executive Transportation Center at Oakland-Pontiac Airport. The four-story, 30,000-square-foot building, flanked by two hangars the size of a football field, was built by Sevond & Kage Inc., general contractors from Bloomfield Hills. The facility will cater to corporate aircraft and travelers.

Blanchard wins school oak award

Gov. James J. Blanchard will visit his childhood school — Roosevelt Elementary in Ferndale — to receive an award this evening for his efforts "to restore public education as a top state priority."

The Equal Partners for Education in Michigan coalition will give Blanchard a 12-pound, nine-inch-high brass sculpture. It is one of seven such awards in existence.

The award is a replica of the "Education Oak" tree carving in Marshall. It depicts the founders of Michigan's public school system, Rev. John D. Pierce and Isaac E. Crary, the two men credited with devising the philosophy for Michigan's public school system in 1834 while sitting under the historic oak.

"It is because of the dedication and enthusiasm thousands of people like Pierce and Crary that education in Michigan has achieved a status of excellence," the governor said.

After the original oak died in 1979, Dr. Phillip Glotfelty of Marshall spearheaded a drive for student support to raise funds to save the historic landmark.

In 1980, the Marshall school children donated funds to have the stump of the tree carved into the figures of Pierce and Crary seated underneath a miniature 11-foot. They presented the sculpture as a sesquicentenial gift to the city in 1980.
