Area potholes 'worst ever'

"The worst ever." That's what the Onkland County Road commission is saying about politoles in paved roads and roughness in unpaved roads this spring.

"Motorists are advised to use caution on all roads the remainder of March and early April during the frost-out period." said John L. Grubbaa, managing director of the OCRC.

Cost of patching potholes will exceed the usual average of 11.3 million. "We've already such aleverage of 11.3 million." We've already seem that much doing potholes during the winter," said Grubba, clitique two reasons:

"One factor is that many of our roads have deteriorated seriously in the last few years because we haven't had the funding to do reconstruction work, such as surfacing, at a sufficient pace. Cracks in deteriorated pavement are invitations for water — which freezes, breaks the edges and leaves potholes.

"The other factor is the amount of rainfall and early ground freeze last fall. There were 20 did days of rain in November, during which temperatures plummeted. As a result, the ground was already saturated when it froze and water was left on the surface. Now that is compounded by snow cover and spring rains."

Tornado sirens to be sounded

March 23-29 is Tornado Safety Week in Ookland County, an area whose western portions lie in the path of Michigan's tornado beltl.

At 1:30 p.m. next Thursday, March 27, the county's division of emergency medical services will sound the siren system, County Executive Daniel T. Murchy exide.

Murphy said.

At any other time, the siren — a steady, three-minute blast — would mean a tornado has been sighted, Oakland has 137 sirens in its system.

Murphy said noxt week's test will enable residents to develop and practice take-cover plans. "It is especially important right now to practice what to do in case a tornado is sighted because most tornadoes ocur in the southern portio of Michigan during April, May, June and July," he said.

No subsidy for townships' deputies

Oakland County commissioners rejected a move to shift an estimated $200,000 of the sheriff's road patrol costs from townships to the county budget.
Cohmissioner Raiph Nelson, R-Rochester, lost 14-13 on his effort to amend the budget to help the townships. He sought to reduce the rate charged per officer by almost $2,500, from $59,722 to $57,728.
"If the townships want deputies, they should pay for them," said Commissioner James Doyon, D-Madison Helghts, who voted against the measure.

"TAXPAYERS from the municipalities pay twice," said Doyon, referring to city taxes for local police and county taxes for the Sheriff's Department. His district includes the cities of Troy and Royal Oak.

"West Bloomfield has its own police force. Whatever we have, we pay for," added Commissioner Thomas Law, R-West Bloomfield.

missioner Thomas Law, Rewest Bioomitica.
"I'm against subsidies," said Commissioner Betty Forlino, D-Waterford, "Several years ago, we decided to eliminate subsidies very gradually, In Waterford, we have a specific millage for police. Some of the rural townships pay only one or 1.5 mills total."

whether cities or townships get more county services that others don't get before rejecting Nelson's amendment.

SUPPORTING the township subsidy were these Observer & Eccentric area commission-ers, all Republicans: Marilyn Gosilng of Bloomfield Hills, William Hassberger of Bir-corner of Southiletin, and May Area Control of Southiletin, and May Fernick and Alex Perliot of Southiletin, and Republicans Susan Kuhn of Clawson (district includes part pl. 100%). Law of West Bloomfield, Nancy McConnell of Bloomfield Hills, and Robert Page of Birmingham (district includes part pl. 1709).

After the amendment was turned down, the board approved the contract 28-1. Total celt for 71 officers will be about $4 million.

Ford gift helps Oakland U. computerize

Oakland University is buying a $190,000 minicomputer to establish a statistics laboratory, with a financial boost from Ford Motor Co.

The OU board of trustees last week ap-proved the purchase, thanking Ford for a commitment of $100,000.

President Joseph Champagne said Ford was of great assistance to OU's department of mathematical sciences as it developed a ma-jor thrust in applied statistics.

THE LABORATORY will be used to teach applied statistics to both graduates and undergraduates, faculty members said. It also will be used in the design of graphic software. Finally, the lab will be used for research in the running of statistical simulations.

OU faculty members have two multi-year contracts with the No. 2 auto maker and a grant program, Champagne said.

One contract is for OU to provide research and instructional services of statistical quality control for the company's computer ty control for the company's computeratied design systems department.

Ford agreed to make a $225,000 grant over three years.

OU will match $100,000 of the grant to establish the new laboratory. The remaining $125,000 is for the support of full-time faculty members in applied statistics.
