

3 suspects in sniper fire await trial

Despite arguments for reduced charges by three defense attorneys at a preliminary examination in 47th District Court Monday, the three Farmington Hills defendants were ordered by District Judge Margaret Schaeffer of Farmington to stand trial in Oakland County Circuit Court on the original charges.

ALTHOUGH ONE defense attorney called what the youths allegedly did "ridiculous to the extreme," he added: "I don't believe the crime fits the facts."

Felony warrants were issued for the three by the Oakland County prosecutor's office following the four arrests the night of April 7. The three stood mute at arraignment April 8 in 47th District Court; not-guilty pleas were entered on their behalf.

David Wayne Lambdin, 17, is charged with one count of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder, a felony which could bring up to 10 years in prison. He is also charged with a second felony count of malicious destruction of a building over $100, punishable by up to four years in prison.

William Joseph Bolger, 17, and Gerald Michael Atkins, 16, are each charged with single felony counts of malicious destruction of personal property over $100.

Bond of $5,000 for Lambdin and $2,000 each for Bolger and Atkins was continued by Schaeffer.

The fourth Farmington Hills man allegedly involved in the shootings, John Cashen, 18, took the stand Monday, testifying he was the second to shoot from one of the second-story windows, firing the rifle several times.

SHOTS WERE allegedly fired during a Michigan Bell Telephone building and a parked 1984 pickup truck — originally thought to be a van. Shots were first fired by Atkins, and later, by Bolger, Cashen testified.

Police will seek a warrant charging Cashen with a misdemeanor for his part in the shootings, said detective Craig Summers of the Farmington Hills Police Department.

Cashen testified that he believes the prosecutor will issue a warrant charging him with discharging a firearm within the city limits.

Cashen left the first room occupied by Atkins and Bolger, while Bolger allegedly was shooting out the window, and entered a second room occupied by Lambdin. He (Lambdin) was shooting out the window at the house across the street," Cashen said during testimony.

Cashen assumed the house window was hit because "the glare of the window (glass) had changed," according to his testimony.

Cashen then testified that Lambdin said, "Watch this," and aimed at a white Camaro, a moving target, "firing at least one, maybe more" shots at it.

Cashen traveled throughout the house during the shootings, he said. "I walked in a lot of rooms. I was nervous."

IT WAS "reasonable to assume" shots were being fired from both upstairs windows at the same time, Cashen added under cross examination.

The four lied to police when arrested the night of April 7, Cashen testified. "Everybody did (lie) at that point."

Cashen later told police the truth because "I didn't shoot at any cars, or at any house. I aimed at a tree. I don't want to get charged for something I didn't do," he testified.

Defense counsel agreed to several stipulations proposed by Assistant Prosecutor Paul Fischer, placed on record in 47th District Court Monday. They include: a bullet did hit a white Camaro, that a bullet did hit one house, and that an unoccupied 1984 pickup was damaged in excess of $100. All owners of the damaged property were specified in the stipulations.

Cashen testified that there was no specific reason the four went upstairs and began shooting from the windows. "It seemed really spontaneous," he said.

Cashen said he "never saw any damage" during the shooting. He estimated the distance between the house where the shooting occurred and the property hit was "about 100 yards, maybe more."

Cystic fibrosis fight receives boost

without your fund raising, those possibilities won't be realized."

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has set national fund-raising goals of $10 million for 1986 and $15 million for 1987. The Southfield chapter hopes to contribute $300,000 toward the national cause this year, up $40,000 from 1985.

Last year, the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation earmarked $18 million in contributions toward cystic fibrosis research and education. The disease strikes one of every 2,000 newborns. There are 10 million carriers of the gene nationwide.

65 Roses Club members pay an annual membership fee of $100 and contribute $10 to fight cystic fibrosis each time a Tiger hits a homerun. After reaching the 100-homerun level, members contribute $1 for each round-tripper.

The fourth-annual Lance Parrish Golf Classic to fight cystic fibrosis will be held Monday, Aug. 18, at the Hillcrest Country Club, Clinton Township. For details, call 552-9618.
