

Word concert

Works of poets, composers highlighted

The Edward Weiss Ensemble will present "Word Concert," at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, July 18-19, at the Michigan Gallery, 2661 Michigan Ave., Detroit.

This performance will highlight unique works by composers working with words and poets working with sound.

The "Word Concert" was developed to show how poets and composers of the 20th century are continuing to experiment with the variety and flexibility of the human voice.

Works that will be performed use special texts, phrases and words in ways that often develop new sounds or sound combinations. Composers and poets that will be featured include Robert Ashley, co-founder of the Ann Arbor Once Group; John Cage, one of the most influential artists of this century; Colleen Weiss, writer and musician; Jackson Mac Low, a poet, musician and former literary editor of the Fluxus Group; and a new text piece using live electronics by composer Edward Weiss. Performing with the ensemble will be Eva Powers, Colleen Weiss, Sanders Bryant, Aubrey Waller and Sandra Kemp.

DEVOTED TO PRESENTING works of the 20th century, the Edward Weiss Ensemble has been performing throughout Michigan and the Midwest for the past 10 years. The ensemble recently completed performances at the Detroit Artists Market, Alma College, the Cranbrook Academy of Art and Henry Ford Community College.

The gallery is one block west of Tiger Stadium. Tickets are $5. For more information, call 981-7867 or 561-9366.

Sweet tidings of sour socks

Salute Your Shorts, Life at Summer Camp, by Thomas Hill and Steve Slavkin, Workman Publishing, 159 pp., $5.95.

Awright. Line up, front and center. No talking. First question: How many of you have gone to summer camp? Fine. How many haven't? OK. Now, listen up, 'cause "Salute Your Shorts" is probably the funniest book to come out this summer, a must-read for campers, parents and summer camp alumni alike.

"Salute Your Shorts" is subtitled "Life at Summer Camp," and that says it all. This hilarious little book covers all the bases from nasty pranks to the coed dance. Authors Hill and review

Slavkin, ex-consumers themselves, start with the philosophical basis of summer camp (why? to get rid of the kids, of course) and establish the basic aims of the institution: teaching children that Life Isn't Fair and other important, traditional values.

Reading this book is a vigorous rummaging in an old footlocker, pulling out half-remembered and never-forgotten games like How to Torment the Fat Kid, what one really makes out of popsicle sticks and the subtle nuances of nicknames.

This unique 4 bedroom, 2 1/2 bath Colonial Quad-level home is just loaded with the extras you really want but rarely find in a home at this price. A quality home that can comfortably accommodate the larger family in a quiet suburban setting, yet near to schools, shopping and recreational facilities. $129,900 #1211

Custom cabinets in the bright, airy kitchen and the natural brick fireplace make this home special. The fenced-in yard provides a safe haven for children or pets. The phrase move-in condition is an understatement. It is gorgeous. Located in the well-regarded Plymouth/Canton school district, this 3 bedroom Colonial is mere minutes away from anywhere via I-75. $73,000 #1212
