Polls accessible to handicapped persons

Secretary of State Richard H. Austin reported today that 88 percent of the state's polling place locations will be fully accessible to senior citizens and handicappers for next Tuesday's statewide primary.

The Aug. 5 primary is the first time citizens are voting under a new federal law that requires improved voting accessibility for senior citizens and handicappers who wish to vote in person. Absentee voting privileges will be available as usual.

Austin said that the Department of State has been working with city and township clerks for over a year to ensure that the requirements of the law are met. With the cooperation of local election officials, many polling locations have been modified to make them accessible to handicappers.

"Through these efforts, 4,327 of the 4,900 polling locations in the state will be fully accessible by the Aug. 5 primary," said Austin.

Voters who have questions about the accessibility of a polling location are encouraged to contact their city or township clerk. If the location is not accessible, they can ask to be assigned to an accessible location.

THINKING FOR TWO

Parents-to-be are more assertive today about their hospital choices. They want to be certain about the quality of the hospital experience for both mother and child. The medical aspects are most critical, but comfort, friendliness, family involvement, and privacy are also important. So families check things out for themselves. It's not just the doctor's choice anymore. That's why hospitals are talking about their differences. And the differences at Grace are significant.

Grace is a teaching hospital. And that means patients receive more attention from more professionals. It also means that patients see improved procedures introduced sooner. Grace is a leader in the prenatal, neonatal and high risk pregnancy specialties, but normal deliveries get lots of special attention, too. A wonderful private birthing suite for families seeking an alternative to the more traditional delivery room program is available at Grace. Private rooms are also available. And at Grace, mother and infant are cared for together under a long established maternal bonding program.

Families are encouraged to tour the Grace maternity section before making a hospital decision. And parents-to-be can use the Grace physicians referral program to find a conveniently located Grace affiliated physician.

Thinking for two means planning ahead. We think Grace should be a future mother's first thought.
