

Fight night in Plymouth

Brawl overshadows MSHL title game

By Chris McCook
staff writer

The Bulldogs captured the Midwest Summer Hockey League championship Monday with a 6-4 win against the Falcons at the Plymouth Cultural Center, earning a trip to Chicago to compete in the Challenge Cup Series.

But the celebration was marred by an ugly bench-clearing brawl in the final four minutes of the game. "I got you if it's not reservations in Chicago," said a player who had been set, I would have called the whole thing off, said league commissioner A.J. Baker after the game.

The fight started between Bulldog Todd Krygier and the Falcon Dave Davidson. The Bulldogs had just scored twice to take a 6-4 lead. Both benches eventually spilled onto the ice. The first to leave the bench was Bulldog Scott Wolter. Robins came in the immediate ejection for being the third man in the fight but he refused to leave the ice. Finally he was forcefully removed.

While the fight was being stopped, Baker on the ice for both skirmishes, let the final 25 seconds tick off the clock and sent the teams to their lockers.

Robins, a four-year veteran of the league, will not travel with the Bulldogs to Chicago and has been banned from the league for life. "I can't explain his actions for nothing," Baker said. "This was his third straight year in the championship game and it would have been his third straight championship. He's gone to Chicago all four years. He'll never play in my league again. You know, it was a good hockey game, but the only thing that sticks out was the fight."

HOONICALLY, Robins scored two goals in the game helping the Bulldogs build a 4-3 lead after two periods.

In the opening minutes of the third period Scott Wolter scored for the Falcons to tie the game. Ten minutes later, Brian Krygier and Tim Osborn scored back-to-back goals to put the Bulldogs up for good.

Todd Krygier and Fritz Brown also scored for the Bulldogs. League most-valuable-player Todd Brown, Ken Chaput and Rick Blum added goals for the Falcons.

The Bulldogs got into the title game by taking a 5-4 win against the Spartans in the Bakes Conference finals Sunday. Fritz Brown scored the game-winning early in the final period. Rick Osborn scored twice, Tim Osborn and Dan Noade once each for the Bulldogs.

Jeff Gerish scored twice, Jason Tratech and James Rudberg scored once each for the Spartans. In the Tex Conference finals, the Falcons scored a 4-1 win over the Broncos. Wolter scored twice, Ken Chaput added a goal and two assists and Art Eastman scored for the Falcons. David Ward had the lone goal for the Broncos.

The Bulldogs will leave for Chicago Friday afternoon. They'll be playing the champions and all-stars from the Chicago Windy City Summer Hockey League.

International flavor spiked at S'craft

The International flavor of the volleyball tournament last weekend at Schoolcraft College wasn't strong enough to last to the finals. Actually, it wasn't enough to make it to the playoffs.

The 10-team tourney final was distinctly homegrown, with the Livonia All-Stars defeating the Dearborn Victors 15-13, 15-4 to claim the championship Saturday.

The triumph was overwhelming for the All-Stars, who lost nearly a game all day. They advanced to the four-team playoffs by winning all eight of their games in 'A' pool play. The Victors were second in the 'A' pool.

Oshawa, Ontario, captured top honors in 'B' pool competition, with the Belding team placing second. Oshawa lost one of its eight games, Belding two.

In the semifinals, both 'A' teams proved superior. BY THE TIME the playoffs rolled around, the two star attractions of the tournament, a pair of German club teams, were through. Neither TVS Herrschins nor ASV Dachau of Munich were good enough to advance in the tough field, which also included teams from Lapeer, Pontiac, Flint and Livonia Ladywood.

Still, the Germans' visit was anything but disappointing, according to organizer Bill Cameron. Last year, a Livonia volleyball team visited Germany, and next year another will do the same.

During their stay, the German girls lived with local families and made trips to Greenfield Village, Boblo Island and Mackinac Island. They are currently camping near Traverse City with members of the Belding team before departing for their homeland this weekend.

Asked how their guests liked their visit and the tournament, Cameron said, "With the tears that flowed, you could fill a bathtub. When they left (to go north), the German girls were crying, the American girls were crying, the parents were crying."

"So they must have enjoyed themselves." Sure sounds like it.

Rowe sets 1,500 mark

Jennifer Rowe, a senior All-Arca swimmer from North Farmington, has had a successful summer for the nationally renowned Club Wolverine swim team in Ann Arbor.

July 17-20, Rowe won both the 800 and 1,500 meter freestyle events in the Midwest Senior Championships in Brown Deer, Wis. She qualified for national competition in the 1,500 free with a meet record 17:02.89 clocking.

At the national meet, Aug. 4-8 in Santa Clara, Calif., Rowe placed 14th in the 1,500 with a 16:58.88. She helped Club Wolverine to a eighth place team finish.

Vacuum repeats its NABF collegiate title

Roger George's Dearborn Vacuum baseball team has leaped the next to last hurdle en route to defending its National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) Collegiate Division national championship.

The team, gained access to this weekend's national tournament by winning the five-team regional tournament last weekend in Pontiac. Vacuum won four of its five games, besting Roseville 9-6 in the championship.

Westland John Glenn product Steve Jaskolski pitched seven innings to record the title-clinching victory. Chris Clark picked up the save. Ed Turek, Redford Catholic Central grad and Henry Ford Community College standout, knocked in five of the nine runs with four hits including a home run and a double. Dan Michaels, another CC product, knocked in two runs with a pair of hits.

TUREK AND MICHAELS carried hot bats throughout the tourney. Michaels, who played at Western Michigan University last year, batted .450 in the tourney (3-for-20) with four doubles. Turek hit .421 with a home run and three doubles. Plymouth native Todd Riedel played in only one game, the first, but made a sizeable contribution. He led Vacuum past Dayton with three hits including a home run.

One of Vacuum's victims along the way was Little Caesars of the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League. Little Caesars was 2-2 in the tourney, losing its final game to Vacuum.

Vacuum will travel to Dayton Thursday and will begin the four-team NABF national competition Friday. Other competing teams are Louisville, Maryland and Dayton.
