

Ceramics on exhibit

Works by two artists with a Michigan background are on display at Venture Gallery through August. The bowl (above) by Robert Mangrum is titled "Liebrus." It is low-fire ceramics with underglazes, made this year. The artist, who did his undergraduate work at Eastern Michigan University, lives in California. The work (below) by Tom Venner is titled "Pole." The artist, also an Eastern Michigan University graduate, uses two formats, tripods and poles. The gallery, 28235 Southfield, Lathrup Village, is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday and until 9 p.m. Friday.

Wood Adds Worth to Living.

For style, for comfort, for longterm savings, discover the difference a home of wood can make.

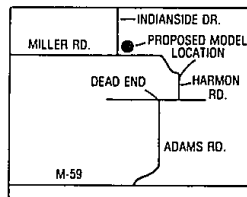

Showcasing the pleasures of wood and its practicality, Timbertruss brings together the best of historic and state-of-the-art techniques...from dramatic exposed timber frame construction to an innovative treated wood foundation.

Plus, Timbertruss' 2,200 square feet can be heated for less than $200 per year. The secret is rigid insulation combined with exterior wood panels and siding to form a nearly airtight barrier against air infiltration. The home's insulated Permanent Wood Foundation assures comfort on the full lower level, finished with a luxurious master suite and two-story great room.

Visit this precision crafted home today. Set on a wooded hillside beside a peaceful pond. Open for a limited time to the public.

Fri-Sun 1-7; Mon-Wed 4-7; closed Thurs.
