

S'craft kickers edge Siena

By C.J. Riesk
staff writer

Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team, plagued by injuries and absences, picked up a player early last week. And what a player: Amy Weber, the Livonia Churchill grad, pumped in two goals and assisted on a third in the Lady Ocelots' 3-2 win over Siena Heights.

The game seemed more like a Livonia all-star game than a match of two state college teams. Siena Heights just promoted its women's club team to varsity, and coach Doug Mello quickly recruited a team by signing eight Observerland players, six from Stevenson High School.

BUT IT WAS another former all-Observerland player who was the difference in the game — Weber. During preseason practice, she had told Duke she had no interest in playing for SC, but former Charger teammate Colleen McQueen urged her to join.

"Good old Colleen talked her into it," said a smiling Duke. "We needed some players and Amy decided to help us. She really did help us out there, even though she wasn't in shape."

If Duke was simply searching for help — three Lady Ocelots were missing (one was injured, a second was in Ireland and a third is ineligible for four games) and top-scorer Denise Pivko was hobbling with a pulled muscle — he couldn't have found any better.

WEBER SCORED the game's first goal at the 20-minute mark after putting on a ball-dribbling clinic. After she took possession about 30 yards from the SH goal, Weber hesitated, freeing one defender in her tracks, then juked two others before bouncing a shot past the Saints' goalkeeper.

It was not a terribly difficult shot, but the SH keeper is inexperienced — she's never played the position until this season — and it showed.

"She's somewhat inconsistent only because she's never played there before," said Saint coach Doug Mello. "They scored mostly on long shots. I'd rather give up those kind of shots, given a choice, but our keeper misplayed some. With experience, those won't go in."

After Weber's initial goal, the Lady Ocelots got lethargic. They did not have another shot on net the rest of the half.

But the Lady Saints did. They dominated at midfield, and sure they exerted paid off when Wendy Propp, who played for SC last year, lofted a shot over Lady Ocelot goalkeeper Doreen Beagle with 10 minutes left in the half.

THE LEFT resulted from careless play by SC's defense, and two minutes later the Lady Ocelots were victimized again. This time Weber, unable to keep pace at midfield, allowed Danielle Montroy (from Livonia Stevenson) to break in free on the SC net.

With no defender to challenge her, Montroy drove a low shot past Beagle to make it 2-1, SH.

"The big thing was we weren't shooting," said Duke. "We were spending too much time trying to set up the perfect play. When you've got an opportunity, you've got to shoot."

"All I told them (at the half) was to go out and shoot."

Duke's instructions took hold. The Lady Ocelots shook off their lethargy, scoring twice in the first 15 minutes of the second half. Midfielder or Jane Moylan got the game-tying goal, scoring on a shot from 20 yards out 10 minutes into the half. Weber's pass back to Moylan set up the score.

FIVE MINUTES later, Elizabeth Peters centered a perfect pass from right wing to Weber, who drilled her shot into the right side of the net so fast the goalkeeper never reacted.

There were other scoring chances, mainly for SH, but Beagle stopped them all.
