

Nominations called for AAUW award

The Farmington branch of the American Association of University Women is seeking nominations for its second women's Community Enrichment Award. The award honors a woman for contributions to the community.

Members are looking for a recipient whose efforts promote fairness and impartiality for women, encourage continuing education and self-development, and cause positive changes in attitude toward women in our community. Last year's recipient was Jan Dolan.

Groups or individuals may submit nominations, using the enclosed form. Nominations will be accepted through Jan. 15. The recipient will be announced March 4, during National AAUW Week.

Send nominations to: Mrs. JoAnn Cline, 32263 Heartstone Road, Farmington Hills 48018.

All women who offer something special to the Farmington area are eligible for this award, except members of the American Association of University Women. Previous candidates can be renominated.

Lutherans will fast to help the hungry

Thursday, Nov. 20, Hope Lutheran Church is taking direct action to help the world's hungry. Exactly one week before Thanksgiving, members of Hope Lutheran Church will be among many other Americans participating in Oxfam America's 13th annual Fast for a World Harvest.

They will be supporting development and disaster relief projects in the poorest countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America by giving up one or more meals and donating the money they would have spent, on food to Oxfam America during a Break Your Fast soup supper at 8:30 that evening sponsored by Aid Association for Lutherans and the Mission Board.

Over the years concerned individuals have used the Fast for a World Harvest as an opportunity to participate symbolically in the struggles of the poor and hungry around the world. The fast has grown and games for children and adults to educate Americans about the root causes of hunger.

ing season in many communities across the country.

The Rev. V. Mesenbring explains, "One week before we celebrate our own abundance, we've chosen to recognize and act on the fact that millions of people in the world live with much less. The fast is a simple and direct method of sharing some of our resources while experiencing, if only for a day, some of their hunger."

Since it was founded in 1970, Oxfam America has earned a reputation for its work overseas in partnership with the poor, designing innovative, small-scale projects based on the idea of people helping themselves. In the U.S. the Fast for a World Harvest is one of many educational and fund-raising efforts coordinated out of Oxfam America's Boston headquarters. ## Artist's collages make up 1-woman show

A Farmington Hills artist who says she tries to enchant and stimulate the imagination or her audience will display her collage paintings at Central Michigan University, through Dec. 5.

Eddee Joppich, who has given 15 one-woman shows, will exhibit "Flying Objects" collage at the CMU Creative Arts Gallery.

Composition, color and texture are important in creating the mood and character of her paintings.

"However, my goal is to stimulate, enchant, and occasionally irritate the imagination of the receptive viewer," Joppich said. "I hope that this sense of discovery will remain no matter how often the works are viewed."

Joppich teaches painting and life drawing classes for the Visual Arts Association of Livonia. Each spring and fall she conducts painting seminars for Michigan artists. Joppich has taught elementary and high school art classes and conducted workshops for art organizations and schools throughout the state.

She is artist-in-residence and co-owner of Joppich's Bay Street Gallery in Northport, Mich., a seasonal gallery, which features collections of recent works by outstanding Michigan artists.

Joppich earned her bachelor of
