

'Success Symbols' Topic Of 5th Realtors Forum

"Symbols of Success" will be one of the principal topics discussed at the fifth annual Realtor Forum to be held on Tuesday, Oct. 1, Marvin O. Moser, general chairman, announced.

The speaker will be Clifford Robedeaux, a recognized expert in real estate sales stimulation. Robedeaux will present his audience with an oral and graphic demonstration of successful real estate sales techniques through the application of his "motivation by attitude" process.

Founder-president of the Milwaukee firm bearing his name, Robedeaux guides one of the largest operations in the area. A past president of the Milwaukee Board of Realtors and the Wisconsin Realtors Association, Robedeaux also holds a law degree from Marquette University.

MORE THAN 1,000 Realtors and guests from throughout the metropolitan Detroit area are expected to attend the half-day Forum at the Raleigh House in Southfield.

Glories Are Easily Grown

Morning glories, blooming from now through frost, are among the quickest and easiest to grow of all flowers. Annuals are recommended over perennials in this climate, "Pearly Gates" may be planted in full sun where, after reaching a height of eight feet or more, they will make their own shade.

Rich soil may be avoided so the plant doesn't become top heavy with excessive foliage. Morning glory seeds are hard and will germinate sooner if notched with a file or soaked in tepid water for eight hours before planting.

Plants In Tubs Beautify Deck Easiest Way Lumber Inspected

Any outdoor living area acquires charm from its relationship to the garden. And, when you build a deck, it's easy to incorporate garden into the structure.

For instance, you can plant a garden right on it by building the deck four to six feet wider than is needed for living space. Then fill that area with planting tubs of various sizes and shapes.

Some tubs can contain annuals for summer color, but most should be used for a permanent planting of hardy, easy-care shrubs. A small tree could even be included. Design this planting with as much care as you'd design any major shrub bed, and its beauty will reward you year-around.

If the deck is built close to the ground, leave open space in its center for a planting stage. That area can be enclosed planter-style to make a raised bed enclosed by a seating bench, or it can be raised just to the level of the deck flooring.

It's equally effective to leave the planting stage at ground level and fill it with berry-producing evergreens like skimmia, cotoneaster, persea, or holly.

Never remove a healthy tree to make way for a deck -- just build around it, allowing enough space around its trunk for growth and watering.

To be sure it's properly graded and used, framing lumber is inspected at least four times before manufacture and its enclosure in a house wall; at the mill before shipping; by the lumber wholesaler or retailer; by the home builder; and the city or county building inspector.

Plastic Bags Protect Plants

Vacationers are advised to water house plants and wrap pot and all in polyethylene plastic bags.

Other types of plastic may be impervious to air and smother plants.

Plastic - wrapped plants should be kept out of bright sun, which might "cook" them. If you have too many plants to wrap, plunge them in your garden before going on vacation. Dig the ground with your fork or spade as for planting.

If you plan to repot your plants in the fall, you can take them out of their pots and sink them with their soil ball in the garden.

This, however, invites worms and other pests and lets the roots spread too freely. When you take the pots indoors in the fall, you would lose some of the roots.

Don't sink the pots below the top edge. This keeps the pot from filling to the rim and leaves space for water.

Before plunging the pots, lift the plant with its earth ball and put a small square of wire screening over the drainage hole. Then return the plant. This will keep the worms out of the pot.

Plants to be left outdoors for a long time to the chance of rain for moisture could benefit from a spraying with an anti-drying or wiltproof material usually sold to prevent winter drying out of plants.
