Simplicity is the hallmark of the living room. Focal point is a piano that also was born again — from its original natural finish to its present black lacquer state. At the far right, a contemporary glass window lets light in but gives privacy from the nearby house. The doorway at the left leads to the new addition.

Art objects collected by the home's owners make up the decor in the guest bedroom that overlooks the backyard. A space saver is the table that is on casters and doubles as a storage bin for blankets and pillows.
