

Professional offices slated

A new $4 million, 43,600-square-foot professional office building on the Botsford General Hospital campus in Farmington Hills will be ready for occupancy by January 1988.

The building encompasses three floors and will be leased to various medical professionals and others in the health-care field. More than 50 percent of the building's space is tentatively leased, said Jeff Bidigare, director of facilities development at Botsford General Hospital. Those completing leases at this time include a pharmacy, optical shop and several physician's offices.

Work on the professional building began in January 1987, when Botsford General Hospital officials recognized a need to expand the amount of current professional office space. Botsford also recently dedicated Phase II, a $13.5 million expansion and renovation project.

Botsford General Hospital is at 28050 Grand River.
