

YMCA Slates Sex Ed Series

FARMINGTON Farmington Area YMCA will again repeat its sex education program for parents and junior high age children as it has for six years.

The three-session course is designed to increase communication between parents and their children in relation to sex and other family topics.

THE SERIES will be held three successive Mondays, Nov. 23 and Nov. 30 and Dec. 7, from 7 to 9 p.m. in Dunckel Junior High School on 12 Mile just east of Farmington Rd.

The lecture and discussion series is open to the public and is free of charge. A parent from each family must accompany the youngster to the first two sessions. The third session is for parents only and will be an informal discussion with the two resource professionals.

THE RESOURCE persons for the parent-student sex education are Dr. Edwin Blumberg and the Rev. Carl Kaltreider. These two professional men have voluntarily lead this program for most of its history since 1963.

These men are leaders in sex education in the Farmington community and have been called upon by many community and church groups to conduct similar programs. They encourage any parent interested in the subject of sex education to attend with his son or daughter.

The Farmington YMCA sponsors this program for the Farmington community. And, no YMCA membership is required; the program is free. Over 2,000 family members have participated in this program during its history.

Local Winery Folding After 37 Years Here

FARMINGTON LaSalle Winery is going out of business in the City of Farmington after doing business for 37 years at its Grand River site.

The winery is now in the process of being "liquidated." When the assets are sold, LaSalle Wines and Champagne, Inc., will no longer be a part of the Farmington business community.

NFH Elects Officers

FARMINGTON Elections were held for class officers at North Farmington High School. Senior officers are: Mike Pease, president; Ken Moses, vice president; Therese Dwyer, secretary; and Debbie Morden, treasurer.

Junior officers include: John Patterson, president; Gary Drapalski, vice president; Bob Murray, secretary; and Randy Watts, treasurer.

Senior board members were elected also. They are: Debbie Chamberlain, Georgia Ellsworth, Gary Geha, Jerra Gorrell, Chris Kurtz, Mike McCormick, Mary Alice Merton, Randy Nikula, Betsy Nauman and Meredith Ramsey.

No junior board elections were held. Since there were only 11 candidates for 10 positions, the board was expanded to 11 members. They include: Don Chapman, Bill Douglass, Pat Hartman, Jeff Kazanow, Sue McCallum, Steve Mitchell, Pam Shaw, Maria Steiger, Cindy Tarpinian, Sue Tiberio and Merry Zischner.

Early Food

Primitive man began to adapt wild hogs to his needs between 7000 and 3000 B.C. It is believed pigs were on this planet 39 million years before man.

THE BUILDING, which used to be the Detroit United Railway terminal, will be leased for one year to the St. Julian Wine Co., Inc.

St. Julian will occupy the building during the period of liquidation and, conceivably, could negotiate a lease extension to occupy the building on a more permanent basis.

The information that LaSalle was moving out of Farmington was made public at the Nov. 2 city council meeting.

Permission was requested, and granted, to issue a new beer and wine license to St. Julian for the one year occupancy at 31506 Grand River.

LA SALLE WAS founded by Morris Twomey in Ontario. About seven years ago, the winery was sold to Chamberlain of America, a New York based corporation.

Chamberlain of America still owns the building and reportedly does not plan on selling for at least a year.

It should take at least a year to dismantle the large wine vats, the larger ones with a 20,000 gallon capacity, and move out the many gallons of wine now stored there.

It is estimated there are about one million gallons of wine stored in the basement of the winery in bulk in the vats.

The winery, in recent years, was used primarily as a wholesale outlet. This year, the winery did a very limited amount of pressing of wine.

Located in the winery are 20 fermenting vats with an average 6,000-gallon capacity that are filled 8-10 times a year. The winery was one of the largest taxpayers in the city.

IN OTHER action, the city council held a necessity hearing for storm drainage to provide direct benefit to a 25-acre area.

The proposed drainage district would also provide relief to existing drains serving Alta Loma subdivision.

The total area runs from the Rouge River to 9 Mile along Freedom Drive and up Farmington Rd. between Freedom and Alta Loma.

City Manager John Dinan estimates the cost for benefiting property owners will be assessed at $3,000 per acre plus an additional $5 per acre frontage foot for property fronting Farmington Rd.

Besides providing relief to Alta Loma, the project will also provide storm relief to the area where Fleming intersects Freedom near I-96 expressway.

THE COUNCIL agreed to meeting with its Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Nov. 18 to hear a report from the commission's Downtown Redevelopment Committee (DRC).

The DRC has completed its studies, says Dinan, and is ready to introduce a plan it hopes will be adopted as part of the overall master plan for the city's central business district.

Dinan also issued a report on the city's annual audit which showed a 1969-70 balance in the general fund of $7,334.

The city's books were audited by Robert Clarke of Plante & Moran. Within the next two weeks, before the next council meeting, councilmen will be meeting with Clarke to discuss the audit and recommended changes in the city's accounting procedures.
