Clutter: How to get

By LeAnne Rogers
special writer

IF YOUR closets could scare Fibber McGee, a Farmington Hills company can get you out of a mess through organization and better space utilization.

The name of the company, Clutter Control Inc., gives a general idea about its primary aim. Owner Ann Brasch said her company works primarily with residential clients designing and installing custom closet interiors.

"We have a complete store with storage accessories and products," she said. "We can do the installations or if people are handy, they can do it."

Clutter Control will work with any type of closet or storage space from bedrooms to pantries. Brasch said the type of use will determine whether, for example, epoxy-coated wire shelves and baskets should be used or a plastic laminate.

"By redoing a bedroom closet usually I can double the capacity of the closet," she said. "If we are installing for a bedroom closet, we do a wardrobe analysis to determine space needs."

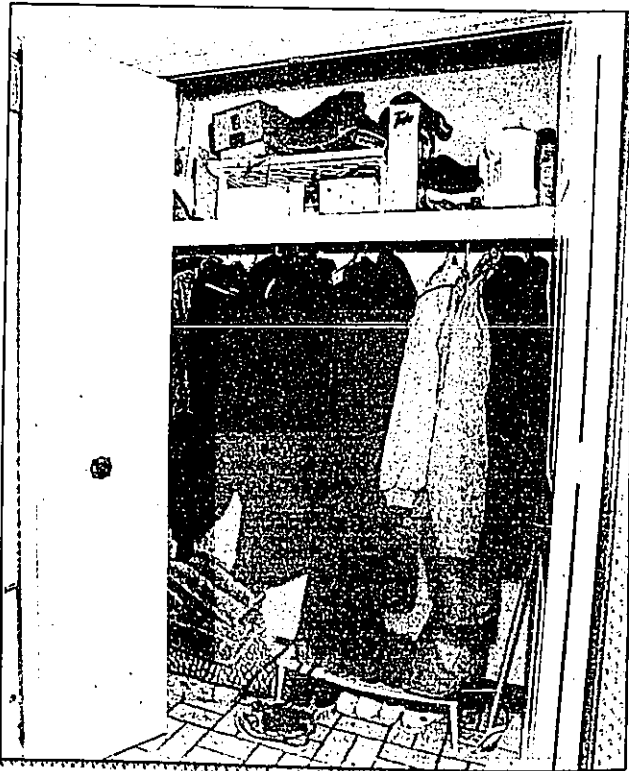

CLIENTS FOR THE firm range from people living in very limited space with limited funds to people with an abundance of room.

"Amazingly enough we have worked for people who live in trailers, young couples who can't afford furniture but want to be organized," Brasch commented. "We work for middle class people to very wealthy people also. They may have a lot of space but want the space organized."

Home owners can bring their measurements into the store for custom work they want to install themselves. Clutter Control will verify measurements and assess needs with home visits if they are doing the installation.

"When we go to a house, we will
