

'Pets on the Go' pamphlet outlines safety procedures

Pet owners who feel like they're "in the doghouse" when vacation time rolls around can forget their worries when traveling with Fido or Fluff by obtaining a free "Pets on the Go" pamphlet at any AAA Michigan office.

The 20-page pamphlet — produced by AAA and ALPO Pet Center — includes trip tips ranging from how to prepare your pet for travel to what to do when an owner must leave his or her pet in a parked car.

As the "dog days" of summer arrive, hot-weather travelers should be aware of several who-what-when-and-how pet-care concerns, including:

- Which are the best-suited dogs and cats for travel.

Pamphlet readers will learn that Pepto Bismol isn't just for humans and, with activated charcoal tablets, it makes an excellent addition to the pet owner's first-aid travel kit.

- What pet-care items should be brought along, including a first-aid kit.
- When to feed pets or give them water.
- How to encourage pets to travel.

Pamphlet readers will learn that Pepto Bismol isn't just for humans and, with activated charcoal tablets, it makes an excellent addition to the pet owner's first-aid travel kit.

If the travels of Fido and Fluff involve entering another country, several requirements must be met before they can go. Animal regulations vary from country to country, with examples of regulations listed in the pamphlet.

Those planning to stay in hotels or motels with their pets during vacation can refer to AAA TourBooks, which list those accommodating pets.

Hills resident gets 'certified' cook honor

George Hamiel of Farmington Hills was one of eight culinary arts students who graduated as "certified cooks" (C.C.) and was awarded an associate degree from Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge Campus cooks apprenticeship program. The graduates received an engraved French plaque and an Olympic Cook Book from the Michigan Chefs de Cuisine Association. The graduates successfully completed three years of college courses and on-the-job training. The cooks/chefs apprenticeship program is sponsored by OCC, the American Culinary Federation, the Michigan Chefs de Cuisine, and the U.S. Department of Labor.
