No less important is a sound, independent judiciary. As court decisions increasingly influence our daily lives for better or for worse, it is imperative that men sit on our courts who are qualified and who owe their allegiance to the law and not to partisan supporters.

It is for this reason that I am urging the re-election of State Supreme Court Justice Michael D. O'Hara, a man who has proven by action his rightful place on Michigan's highest court.

THE CHOICE is also clear in our legislative and congressional elections.

Since first taking office in 1963, I have worked with all shades of legislative political control--from solid Republican to solid Democratic. In the past two years Republicans have held the slightest of edges in the State House and the State Senate and have accomplished more of major substance than any previous modern Legislature.

This record obviously wasn't accomplished simply on the basis of Republican votes; many important actions required bipartisan support. But our Republican leadership in Lansing has shown it can get the job done.

It deserves your vote of confidence in this year's elections to the State House of Representatives.

MICHIGAN'S REPUBLICAN delegation in Congress is unexcelled. It mixes experience with youth, and it is constantly seeking the best answers to Michigan's problems and the nation's.

Space does not permit individual assessments. But I am proud of each Michigan Republican in Congress, and I urge their return.

Among this year's most important election decisions are certain propositions which must be acted on by the voters, including amendments to the State Constitution.

I will deal with certain of these propositions at a later date. My major concern now involves Propositions 3 and 4--the Clean Water and Quality Recreation bonding proposals.

PROPOSITION 3 calls for a $335 million state bond issue to help local governments finance much-needed water pollution control measures.

Proposition 4 asks a $100 million bond issue for state and local outdoor recreation projects.

These are not partisan issues. For clean water and adequate recreation are goals without party boundaries. They reach all of us in our daily lives.

If we are to insure clean water for generations of Michigan citizens, and if we are to meet the mounting recreation needs of our growing state, including those in and around Detroit, then we must have the financial go-ahead provided by these bonding proposals.

It is essential that you vote "Yes" on Propositions 3 and 4.

Most of all, in this time of great crisis, it is essential that you vote.

Only then will the decisions of federal, state and local government in the years to come have real meaning for the well-being of our democratic way of life.

Gribbs Campaigns To Stay As Sheriff

Democratic Sheriff Roman S. Gribbs will go against Plymouth Republican James E. McCarthy in his first test at the polls after taking over the scandal-rocked department.

Gribbs rolled up 86,334 votes in the primary, knocking off Councilman Philip A. VanAntwerp and former Sheriff Peter A. Buback in the primary Aug. 6.

McCarthy, Plymouth Township justice of the peace, who stayed out of the race for district judge, polled 18,665 to win his primary.

There are indications the race could be closer with Wayne County suburbs following the conservative and Republican trends outside of Detroit.

Buback, first appointed to the job in 1963, ran into a ticket-fixing scandal and inherited a shaky administration. He retired July 1 in the face of a state ouster hearing.

"Now I know that the people approve of what I'm trying to do--rejuvenate this department, emphasizing professional law enforcement," Gribbs said after the primary.

Shortly before the election, Gribbs called in Detroit and State Police to raid a smoker in Detroit attended by five of his deputies.

Reckless Courage

Courage (or recklessness?) marked the campaigns of both 1964 Presidential candidates. In the South, Lyndon Johnson spoke out for equal rights and against racial hatred. In Knoxville, Tennessee, Barry Goldwater repeated his suggestion that the Tennessee Valley Authority be sold. In Fort Worth, Texas, Goldwater said that the city's Convair plant should not have been granted a contract to build the TFX fighter-bomber.
