

Tanner-Ramonaits

Tannie Theresa Ramonaits was married Aug. 21 to Kenneth James Tanner in Hope Lutheran Church, Farmington Hills. The Rev. Victor Messenbring officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Al Ramonaits of Redford and Nancy Ramonaits of Keego Harbor. The groom is the son of William and Anna Tanner of Farmington Hills.

The bride majored in photography at Oakland Community College, Orchard Ridge, Farmington Hills.

The groom graduated from Michigan State University where he majored in telecommunications. He is an English instructor at the University of Electronic Science and Technology of China.

A garden reception was conducted at the home of the groom's parents. After a wedding trip to Hong Kong, the couple will reside in Chengdu, People's Republic of China.

Mahaffey-Cermak

Mr. and Mrs. Lyday Mahaffey of Berkley announce the engagement of their daughter, Hazel Lynn, to Nelson Jay Cermak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Cermak of Farmington Hills.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Berkley High School and is now a student at Oakland Community College where she is employed at The Job Center. Her fiance is a graduate of Harrison High School and attended Ferris College. He is self-employed with Transportation Unlimited.

A June, 1990, wedding is planned.

Thursday, September 22, 1988 O&E

(F15B)

Richardson-Fisher

Jennifer Ann Fisher and Lawrence Dale Richardson were married in Orchard United Methodist Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher of Farmington Hills and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Richardson of Seymour, Ind.

The bride is a graduate of North Farmington High School and Central Michigan University. The groom is a graduate of Waukegan High School, in Indiana, and Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn.

The couple received guests in Farmington Hills Holiday Inn before leaving on a honeymoon trip to Spain.

They are making their home in Newport Beach, Calif.

the son of George Lobodocky of Southfield and Mrs. Eddie Lobodocky of Garden City.

The bride wore a white off-the-shoulder silk organza gown over taffeta with beaded Alencon lace bodice. Her headpiece of Austrian crystals held a long veil, and she carried a period bouquet fashioned after her maternal grandmother's wedding bouquet with white carnations, orchids, freesia and lily of the valley in pink silk faille.

Steven Lobodocky was his brother's best man who served with groomsmen Charles Krueger, Robert Krueger and Mark Wallace. Meghan Sabau and Michael High were flower girl and ring bearer.

The couple received guests for dinner and dancing in Plain Hollow Golf Club before leaving on a honeymoon cruise to the Caribbean Islands.

The couple are now at home in Plymouth.

Judith Wool served as matron of honor with bridesmaids Tricia Duncan, Jeanne Withers and Denise Lech, who wore long sheath gowns of pink silk faille.

Steven Lobodocky was his brother's best man who served with groomsmen Charles Krueger, Robert Krueger and Mark Wallace.

Megan Sabau and Michael High were flower girl and ring bearer.

The couple received guests for dinner and dancing in Plain Hollow Golf Club before leaving on a honeymoon cruise to the Caribbean Islands.

The couple are now at home in Plymouth.

Piastowski-LaFave

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Piastowski of Farmington Hills announce the engagement of their daughter Annette Marie to Patrick Joseph LaFave, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph LaFave of Farmington Hills.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Harrison High School and a senior at Wayne State University. Her fiance is a graduate of Clarenceville High School and Madonna College, employed with Seidman and Seidman of Troy.

An August 1989 wedding is planned.

Space rented for boutique

Crafters may rent table space in "Santa's Workshop," a boutique sponsored by St. Paul Church's Lutheran Women's Mission. The boutique is scheduled for Nov. 12-13 in the church on the corner of Middlebelt and Eight Mile, Farmington Hills.

Table reservations are being taken by Deborah Jensen, 421-6704.

Finding a Doctor In a new community isn't easy...

And most newcomers say that's one of their first requirements after they move in: to find a doctor who knows the newcomer specialist who helps new families pick the health professionals they need. You want to help new families in town to better health, pick Getting To Know You.

GETTING TO KNOW YOU

WELCOMING NEWCOMERS NATIONWIDE

For membership details, call
(800) 645-6376
in New York State (800) 632-8400

Alexander-Parker

Mary Ellen Alexander, formerly of Farmington, and Alan Lewis Parker, formerly of Birmingham, exchanged their wedding vows in a mid-August ceremony at the Hay-Adams Hotel in Washington, D.C.

The couple had been with their families, including their children - Ken Alexander of Denver, Cole, Kathryn Alexander of Marblehead, Mass., Kevin Alexander of Winter Park, Colo., Kraig Alexander of Washington, D.C., and Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Parker of Alexandria, Va.

The bride, who was employed until 1985 by the Livonia Public Schools as an assistant high school principal and counselor, is on the staff of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, based in Reston, Va.

Her husband, who was president of the Ford Aerospace Satellite Services in 1986, is working as an aerospace industry consultant in Washington, D.C.

Following a honeymoon trip to England and France, the newlyweds will be residing in Georgetown, Washington, D.C., and Lancaster County, Pa.

SENSATIONAL SOFAS

Underpriced "We Discount Luxury"

Charles

CHARLES FURNITURE WAREHOUSE
222 E. Harrison • Royal Oak • 399-8226
6 Banks N. of 10 Mile • Chass. L. off 10 Mile
OPEN MON-SAT. 10-5 • FRIDAY TIL 8 P.M.

C&R designs

Serving Oakland County for 11 Years

Full Service In House Design
For the Home or Office Environment

- Floor Plan Layouts
- Office Space Planning
- Window Treatments
- Reupholstery
- Floor Coverings
- Custom Formica
- Wall Coverings
- Stain Glass & Mirrors

Available for Consultations

549-7995

From Traditional to Contemporary...

Today's Woman

A Weekend Showcase

PRESENTS...

AN EVENING WITH MARLO THOMAS...
TODAY'S WOMAN

• FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1988, 7:00 P.M.
• CLEARY AUDITORIUM, WINDSOR, ONT.
• TICKET PRICE - $75.00 CDN - INCLUDES DINNER, COMPLIMENTARY BRIGHTS WINE, INFORMAL MODELING BY LA MODA BOUTIQUE & CONSTANTINI FURS, DOOR PRIZES, TRADE SHOW & GUEST SPEAKER - MARLO THOMAS.
ORDER TICKETS NOW BY MAIL (MONEY ORDERS, MONEY GRAM OR PHONE (VISA OR MASTERCARD)
DEPOSITED 1-2 WEEKS FOR DELIVERY.

PHONE 519-254-4409 MAIL - NOUVEAU TRADE SHOW & CONVENTION PLANNERS, INC.
4800 TECUMSEH RD. E., WINDSOR, ONT. N8W 1K7

Lobokocky-

Krueger

Karen Margaret Krueger and Alexander John Lobodocky were married by Dr. Bartlett L. Hess in Ward Presbyterian Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Krueger Jr. of Farmington, and he is the son of George Lobodocky of Southfield and Mrs. Eddie Lobodocky of Garden City.

The bride wore a white off-the-shoulder silk organza gown over taffeta with beaded Alencon lace bodice. Her headpiece of Austrian crystals held a long veil, and she carried a period bouquet fashioned after her maternal grandmother's wedding bouquet with white carnations, orchids, freesia and lily of the valley in pink silk faille.

Steven Lobodocky was his brother's best man who served with groomsmen Charles Krueger, Robert Krueger and Mark Wallace.

Megan Sabau and Michael High were flower girl and ring bearer.

The couple received guests for dinner and dancing in Plain Hollow Golf Club before leaving on a honeymoon cruise to the Caribbean Islands.

The couple are now at home in Plymouth.

Judith Wool served as matron of honor with bridesmaids Tricia Duncan, Jeanne Withers and Denise Lech, who wore long sheath gowns of pink silk faille.

Steven Lobodocky was his brother's best man who served with groomsmen Charles Krueger, Robert Krueger and Mark Wallace.

Megan Sabau and Michael High were flower girl and ring bearer.

The couple received guests for dinner and dancing in Plain Hollow Golf Club before leaving on a honeymoon cruise to the Caribbean Islands.

The couple are now at home in Plymouth.

Peter P. Jacobi, a writer on the workshop staff, poses with one of his students, Betsy Ganatra from Farmington Hills.

Highlights will publish an illustrated report of its 1988 Chautauqua Workshop, which will be available free. Write: "Highlights at Chautauqua," 68, 403 Church Street, Honesdale, Pa. 18431.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration.

Ganatra is a preschool teacher and parent educator who works with bilingual and gifted children and their parents in two early childhood centers. She holds a bachelor of science in education and home economics, and a master's in child development and education.

The Chautauqua workshop was sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by Highlights Foundation. The foundation was established by Highlights for Children, the monthly periodical for youngsters from 2-12 years. With a circulation of 2.5 million, Highlights for Children, now in its 42nd year, is the nation's most widely read periodical for children.

The workshop offered writers "a week of immersion in the world of writing for children," according to Highlights editor Kent L. Brown Jr.

Betsy Ganatra of Farmington Hills was one of 91 writers who assembled at Chautauqua Institution in western New York State for an intensive week of instruction and inspiration