

FHS Students Learning Yoga

FARMINGTON New addition to the Farmington High School scene is a yoga class sponsored by the student council. About 60 attend each Thursday from 7 to 8:15 p.m.

Yogi Vasco explained at the first session that the main idea behind yoga is to get "high" by physical exercises and thought control. All negative thoughts are relegated to the past where they belong, leaving the Yoga practitioner happy, contented, and relaxed.

One of the ultimate physical objectives is to attain the lotus position wherein the legs are crossed in a manner that is supposed to aid concentration and connect the nerve centers.

STUDENT PERFORMERS — Farmington high school students assisted in the recent Mozart motet, "Exultate, Jubilate," offered by the Farmington Musical club featuring Mrs. Margaret Savely, soprano, and directed by Mrs. Betty Monahan. FARMINGTON The "Northern Star," North Farmington High School's student newspaper lays claim to being the only high school paper in the state to be published on a weekly basis. This is possible because there are two full classes of journalism students, and Mrs. June McKnight plans to keep them busy on alternate weeks.

And they lived happily ever after.
A.O. Smith
 Well . . . they would have, if the water heater had been a glass-lined A. O. Smith model. But A. O. Smith's proven glass lining isn't the only reason. Unlike some manufacturers, A. O. Smith designs, evaluates and thoroughly tests each component of its water heaters. The result of this total engineering? Of the more than 10,000,000 home water heaters A. O. Smith has made, more than 99% are free of warranty claims. Too bad our untucky housewife didn't know all this earlier!
 There's another important thing about a water heater—a family can outgrow it. Especially if remodeling adds a dishwasher or extra bath to the hot water picture. A good way to protect yourself against these problems is to choose an A. O. Smith model with enough capacity for the future. All but the budget-priced models carry a full 10-year warranty.
