'Hamlet' Is Staged At Institute

Some 1,000 tickets have been sold already for the one-night appearance of Dame Judith Anderson in the title role of "Hamlet," the Detroit Institute of Arts concert series attraction for Tuesday, Jan. 5. That leaves 200 seats in the Art Institute's auditorium, 5200 Woodward, for fans of this dynamic actress to avail themselves of this unusual theatrical event.

Through Jan. 4, tickets can be obtained only through J.L. Hudson ticket services; on Jan. 5, the day of the performance, any remaining tickets will be at the Art Institute ticket office, 832-2730. Three more concerts will be offered in the current season.

GOLDIE STARS — When Goldie Hawn tells Robert (Peter Sellers) that she is leaving him, he can't believe it. They're in the zany comedy "There's A Girl in My Soup," playing at the Terrace Theatre.

Group Plans Concert Feb. 5

Mail orders are now being accepted at the University of Detroit box office for a performance of Chicago, a group which will be heard in concert Friday, Feb. 5. The concert will be in the University of Detroit Memorial Building, 4001 W. McNichols.

Jazz Dancers Visit Schools

Wayne State University's Jazz Dance Theatre, which made its debut last June at a concert in the Bonstelle Theatre, will take to the road this winter.

With the support of the Michigan State Council for the Arts, the company will perform a series of lecture-demonstrations in Detroit area high schools and colleges.

Jean Sabatine, director of the company, is looking after bookings at WSU, 577-3866. A limited number of free performances will be made possible through the support of the Council.

'Unusual We' Lofy's Stars

The exciting Unusual We opened a limited engagement at Lofy's Pavilion Room on Saturday, Dec. 26.

This four girl-four guy group is making its appearance direct from Las Vegas. The Unusual We is a new experience in contemporary musical entertainment. The group doesn't just sing, it combines choreography and staging with vocal and musical arrangements.
