

Meet The Orchard Lake Schools

Turreted buildings left over from the Michigan Military Academy days mix with airy and graceful contemporary architecture on the Orchard Lake Schools campus.

Students range from prep school freshmen to seminarians about to assume the full duties of Catholic priesthood, and now the first woman is enrolled in St. Mary's College class.

But the student body still is 95 per cent Polish-American, and that fits in with the original purpose of the institution when it was founded back in 1885.

That was to fill the spiritual needs of the vast number of immigrants from Poland who had flocked to American shores during the mid-century years of the 19th century.

MORE PRIESTS were needed in these Polish settlements, and from the pope in Rome came the suggestion for the only possible solution, a specially-trained native Polish-American clergy.

Two men, a priest named Father Joseph Dabrowski and a Franciscan missionary named Father Leopold Maczygalski, spearheaded the effort to build a seminary to train such clergy.

At first it was to be located in Nebraska, then the site was switched to Detroit because the area was a central point among Polish settlements in America. The original Polish Seminary officially opened its doors Dec. 16, 1886, located on St. Aubin Avenue and under the leadership of Fr. Dabrowski.

THE FIRST rectory died in 1906, and it was three years later that his successor, Father Vitold Bukackowski, purchased the military academy site in the quiet, rural village of Orchard Lake.

Even before that, the curricular and departmental organization of the schools had come close to full development.

So, by the time of the move, there was a preparatory school open to all boys, whether or not they were going into the priesthood, as well as a college and higher seminary study for future clergy.

The intervening years have seen six more rectors heading the campus. They include Father Michael Grupa, whose elevation to the rank of domestic prelate in 1923 meant that all rectors would be distinguished with the title of monsignor, and Monsignor Anthony Klowo, the first to come directly from the Orchard Lake Campus.

There also was Monsignor Krzyzosiak, Monsignor Edward Szumal, in whose tenure a new building program began; Monsignor Wallace Filipowicz, and the present youth director, Father Walter Ziemia, Ph.D., who took over in 1967.

ON CAMPUS today are 300 preparatory students; 90 in St. Mary's College, which a year ago opened its classes to students not heading for the priesthood; and 66 seminarians.

Assisting in operation of the schools are the Felician sisters, who have been on campus since 1933, working in the sacristy, laundry and dining hall.

New buildings in the last decade include the lovely Shrine Chapel, with a sloping roof bearing a strong resemblance to praying hands; the alumni memorial library; a college dormitory; a dining hall, and an almost-completed preparatory dormitory.

St. Mary's Preparatory School now offers a four-year secondary program of pre-college studies in a disciplined boarding school environment that prepares young men for future study and service.

St. Mary's College has a four-year liberal arts program with majors available in theology, Polish, and the communications arts.

The four-year graduate program offered by Saints Cyril and Methodius Seminary prepares men for the priesthood, the permanent diaconate and lay leadership in the Catholic Church.

ORCHARD LAKE also embraces three service centers—the Center for Polish Studies and Culture, the Center for Pastoral Studies and the Polish-American Liturgical Center.

Over the years, Orchard Lake Schools have trained 2,000 young men for the priesthood and some 9,000 for other walks of life.

In its brochure to prospective students, the institution states its purpose.

"Orchard Lake continues to develop the whole man in his relationships to himself, others and God.

"It continues to give to the world men dedicated to God and Polonia—both lay leaders and priests. Orchard Lake fathoms the meaning of life itself."

CS Church Will Launch New Series On Radio

A new radio series, "The Truth That Heals," will be launched Sunday, Jan. 3, by the Christian Science Church. A. Dean Joki, head of the church's committee on publication in the state, said the 15-minute programs are inspirational in purpose and "designed to be of help to people of all faiths."

Each program will consist of recorded conversations with people from many lands sharing firsthand experiences that show the relevance of spiritual power to today's needs, Joki said.

THE HOUR will be 9:45 a.m., the time slot that has been allotted to a previous Christian Science program, "The Bible Speaks to You."

The drug scene and other timely topics will be explored in the series. Portions of the new broadcasts are recorded on location. The programs are produced by the recently-established Film and Broadcasting Department of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

Host of the series is Ralph Camargo of New York. Music is provided by Larry Groce, an internationally-known singer of contemporary religious ballads. His album, "Peace and Joy and Power," is currently on display in local Christian Science Reading Rooms. Groce is accompanied by John Near on the organ of the Original Edifice of the Mother Church.

FEATURED in the January broadcasts of "The Truth That Heals" are insights shared by Inman Douglass of Dallas, Carol Alton of Boston, Yoshikazu Hoshimi of Tokyo, Clee Snipe of Principia College, Rose and Peter Hennrich of Boston, Nathaniel White of New Jersey, and Jack Hubbell of Palo Alto, California.

"Wait Can I Do to Help and Heal?" is the title of the opening broadcast in the series on Sunday, Jan. 3.

Save the Children Federation will receive 50 per cent of the royalties of the new book, "People of the Short Blue Corn" by Harold Courlander.

The book, illustrated by Enrico Arno and published by Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc., is a collection of 17 tales and legends of the Hopi Indians who live on three mesas in Arizona. The royalties will be used for a program to help Hopi children sponsored through the federation, a non-profit voluntary organization headquartered in Norwalk, Conn.

The author is a Folk Lore expert who spent two summers among the Hopi people collecting material for his book.

Humanistic Judaism Is Topic For New Course

Rabbi Sherwin Wine, the leader of Birmingham Temple, will begin a new course in religion titled "An Introduction to Humanistic Judaism" at 8:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 4.

The course will continue for nine successive Mondays and will meet in the Robert Frost Junior High School in Oak Park, where the congregation meets while building its new temple in Farmington Township.

Each lecture and discussion will last 90 minutes and advance registration can be arranged by calling the Birmingham Temple Office, 549-5490.

RABBI WINE and the members of the Birmingham Temple have pioneered a new denomination in Judaism. Until recently there have been three established Jewish groups: orthodox, conservative, and reform.

With the birth of the Birmingham Temple in 1963 there are now four.

The philosophy of Wine's congregation and two sister temples in Chicago and New York is called Humanistic Judaism. It is an attempt to adapt the ethical and aesthetic traditions of the historic Jewish religion to the age of science and universalism.

THE PURPOSE of the course, said Rabbi Wine, is to acquaint the general community with the ideas and principles of the new religious approach. Utilizing the most reliable information available through modern archeology and textual criticism, he will reveal a view of Jewish history radically different from the conventional Biblical approach.

Surveying the behavior of religious people in all cultures, he will present a concept of religion that is independent both of worship and of God. And integrating the best of modern philosophy, he will attempt to define a system of religious morality that prefers human experience to divine authority.

Rabbi Wine said he regrets that so many young Jews today could find no spiritual home in the conventional denominations. He felt that only a revolutionary change in Judaism and in other religions would enable them to meet the philosophic needs of people today.

"A worthwhile religion," he said, "enables people to feel strong and confident in their own power, and, at the same time, to recognize their dependence on other men. Humanistic Judaism presents a view of man that is both realistic and optimistic. In this regard, the wisdom of modern Jews like Erich Fromm and Albert Einstein is just as important as those of Isaiah and Ezra."

His wife, Barbara, received training as a licensed practical nurse at the Shapero School of Nursing. The family also includes three sons, Mark, Darryl and Jeffrey.

Moving to New York with the family will be the Rev. S. Winn Sr., who has made his home with his son for three years.

During Rev. Winn's stay in the congregation he will be the new church at 2920 Shilohs-ave and established the Tiny Tots Day Care Center.

Forum Series Will Continue

The third program in the current breakfast forum series of Congregation Beth Abraham will take place Sunday, Jan. 10, at 10 a.m., in the Synagogue Building, W. Seven Mile and Greenlawn, Detroit.

A panel entitled "Jewish Education for Jewish Survival"

Yiddish Songs To Be Heard

"Hear Our Voice" presents "Jan Pierce Singing More Yiddish Folk Songs" on Sunday, Jan. 3. This program on Jewish music is heard weekly on Station WCAW (1130) each Sunday evening at 11:30, presented by Cantor Harold Orbach of Temple Israel and produced by the Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Detroit.

Operatic Tenor, Jan Pierce, offers a rare opportunity to hear selected classics from Jewish folk songs.

The public is invited.

THE RECENT TOUR included revisiting England, Germany, and Greece. The remainder of the trip was spent in Africa and Asia.

Dr. Armstrong retired from the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of Birmingham on Nov. 1, 1970. He will continue to live in Detroit and plans to write and do some public lecturing.

The public is invited to the lecture and slide program. There will be no charge. The Grand River Baptist Church is located on Six Mile Road just west of Farmington Road.

World Traveler To Lecture

DR. HOMER ARMSTRONG

Dr. Homer Armstrong will be featured speaker for the adult family night program at Grand River Baptist Church of Livonia on Wednesday, Jan. 6, at 7:30 p.m.

Using Kodachrome slides, he will present his recent world tour under the theme, "Around The World In Eighty Days."

Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong have made three tours of Europe and the Middle East from 1954 to 1956.

In 1956, he was chosen as exchange minister to Great Britain from the United States and preached for 10 weeks in the British Isles. In September of 1968 the First Baptist Church of Birmingham gave the Armstrongs a three-month sabbatical and sent them on a world journey.
