

Ideas spawn new cable TV shows

Those of you who have been in community television workshops are telecommunication pioneers. You are about a public who recognizes the importance played by a single person and a single thought. Your idea is at the root of every program on this channel. The world actually seems smaller and the media become a human.

A team of people trained to develop your thought for television is not just a figment of the imagination. We have a resource list on our database.

Judy Kral, our Channel 12 editor and my administrative assistant, has separated certified graduates into remote production and studio production. Keep the monthly newsletter for recent workshop grads eager to help.

Idea people are an integral part of action and the production crew are pivotal. Call today and let our staff share in the process of turning your idea into action on cable Channel 12.
